Valentine love bug bites in many ways

by DIANE MERMIGAS

Florists and confectioners who must meet the demands of those smitten by the love bug each Valentine's Day will tell you a simple bouquet or box of candy won't always satisfy their customers.

Unusual orders on this holiday of lovers is enough to keep the shop owners smiling the rest of the year.

They have each of their customers pegged: The forgetful Don Juan who places a last-minute order, the happy gigolo who has a dozen or so "one and onlys" he sends gifts to, or the gallant lover who impresses his lady with a snappy keepsake.

THEIR STORIES ABOUT what happens on Cupid's day-long celebration would stand any Romeo and Juliet on their ears.

"This is one of the wildest days of the year and one of our biggest holidays," said Robert Kopecky, owner of Nelson's Bo-Kay Shoppe, Palatine.

Some customers measure their love by the number of flowers they send, so it's not unusual to deliver six or eight dozen roses "to some lucky lady," he said.

Some married couples bring in sentimental containers, like wine bottles from first dates or drinking glasses, to have them filled with flowers.

Then there's always the eager young man who has his eye on a girl, knows her name and address, but doesn't quite have the nerve to introduce himself. So he sends her a floral arrangement with a toy telephone in it along with a card that says: "If you like the flowers, give me a call."

"THE FUNNY THING about that particular order was that it worked. I think the couple is married now," Kopecky said.

However, the delivery of such creative orders isn't always easy. One order last year went to a patient in a Chicago hospital where the staff was on strike. The only way to smuggle the flowers in was to place them on an operating table and whisk them down the hall, he said.

"But the strangest orders we get are the ones that are placed from one dog to another, and I'm not kidding," Kopecky said.

Pet owners call in the order from their "poochie" to someone else's "Rover." The number of such calls continues to increase each Valentine's Day. So Kopecky has devised a special "doggie" arrangement for his special customers, equipped with dog biscuits and toy bones.

THE MOST out-of-the-ordinary orders Joann Brodnan, owner of Joann's Country Flowers, Buffalo Grove, has received include requests for an arrangement of dead flowers — a joke to an unsuspecting wife.

There also are orders for 36-inch

Teachers vow aid in tax vote

The Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teachers' union has pledged its support to help pass a tax referendum this spring to preserve the district's quality of education and ease the district's financial woes.

The Dist. 25 Board of Education informally agreed Thursday to hold a tax referendum, cut almost $900,000 out of the budget, reduce teaching positions by 43 and close North School to hold down a budget deficit predicted to begin next year and reach $3.9 million by 1984.

"It is very important for this referendum to be passed, not simply because of the teachers' jobs, but to maintain our programs, in the schools," James Modec, president of the teachers' union, said Friday.

MODEC SAID HE has pledged the "help of the union in whatever means or form the administration sees fit to use it."

Modec said the union already has been working "very closely" with the administration, and a meeting of the union leaders has been scheduled for Monday to see how teachers are reac-

Regret greets closing of North

A mixture of resignation and regret surrounds the imminent closing of North School, 410 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

"We hate to see the board's decision of its being closed, but I think we were prepared. It was just a matter of time," said Edith Anderson, president of the North School PTA.

The Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board has informally agreed to close North School this fall or in the 1977-78 school year to help offset a growing deficit in the 18-school district. The board expects to make a decision on the closing by March.

Patty testifies, tells of constant threat of death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, weeping quietly and fighting to keep from breaking down, told Friday of lying blindfolded, gagged and bound in a tiny airless closet for days and warned she would be strung from the ceiling if she made any noise.

A fragile, pale lonely figure on the witness stand, Miss Hearst told the jury at her bank robbery trial a chilling story of being dragged from her apartment two years ago by a band who said they were kidnaping her to start a revolution in the United States.

The 21-year-old girl's face streaked with tears as she recounted an occasion when terrorist ring leader Donald De Freeze pinched her breasts and private parts because she had displeased the girls in the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Miss Hearst said she was threatened constantly with death and that the first words spoken to her by SLA ringleader Donald DeFreeze was: "Bitch, you better be quiet or I'll blow your head off."

Attorney F. Lee Bailey startled a packed courtroom in the first hours of the opening of the defense case when he suddenly announced: "I call Patricia Hearst."

She started out in a low, soft little girl voice and seemed to keep her composure.

But after about half an hour she became shaky. Her voice faltered and she was almost unable to go on, as she told about DeFreeze closing the closet door on her because "I wasn't giving the right answers to his questions."

Miss Hearst said that on the night of Feb. 4, 1974, she and Weed were watching television in the apartment where they were living together when a woman came to the door, said she had had an auto accident and asked to use the phone.

Two men, later identified as DeFreeze and William Harris, then burst into the apartment. The woman was Angela Atwood.

Miss Hearst said DeFreeze shoved a pistol in her face and told her to lie down on the kitchen floor. William Harris straddled her, put a blindfold over her eyes, forced a gag in her mouth and bound her hands behind her.

She was dragged to her feet, she

Have you put on your new plates?

The deadline for displaying 1976 Illinois license plates is midnight Sunday.

The offices of Sec. of State Michael Howlett will be open today from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. today for last-minute car, recreational vehicle and motorcycle license plate sales.

Nearly 400 banks and savings and loans and 650 currency exchanges in the Chicago area also are selling the red, white and blue Bicentennial plates.

The nearest secretary of state's office for Northwest suburban residents is 5401 N. Elston Ave., Chicago. Howlett's Libertyville office is at 929 N. Milwaukee Ave.

The deadline does not affect trucks which are licensed for the state's fiscal year which begins in July.

Here is the latest set of winning numbers in the Illinois Lottery's 12-week Super Shot drawing.

3 trustees to attend rock music concert

At least three Mount Prospect trustees will rub shoulders with rock 'n' rollers at Wednesday's Ted Nugent concert at Randhurst. The three, E. F. Richardson, Edward B. Rhea Jr. and Michael H. Minton, say they want to see how the concert is conducted as a result of the controversy generated by the hard rock Blue Oyster Cult concert at the Randhurst Twin Ice Arena Jan. 30. Several trustees were upset by reports of marijuana smoking, drinking and drug overdoses at the Blue Oyster Cult concert. Promoters of the concert say steps are being taken to prevent that from occurring again and invited board members to view first-hand the concert setup.

Schools oppose unit district

Opposition is growing among area elementary school districts to the formation of a unit school district in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59. Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21, Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 and Prospect Heights Dist. 23 this week joined with High School Dist. 214 in opposing the Dist. 59 unit effort. Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary school districts that feeds into Dist. 214. A Dist. 59 citizens' committee is in the midst of studying the unit concept which would have one board and administration for elementary and high schools within the Dist. 59 boundaries. Dist. 214 estimates it will lose about $1.5 million a year in state aid and taxes if the unit district is formed.

Dist. 54 referendum today

Residents in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 will vote today on three school referendum proposals, all involving an increase in taxes. The district will seek approval of a $350,000 construction bond sale to complete to complete financing of a permanent administration center, a 30-cent increase in the education fund from $1.61 to $1.91 per $100 assessed valuation and a 17.5-cent increase in the operations, building and maintenance fund from 37.5 to 55 cents per $100. Passage of the three issues would raise taxes an estimated $40 to $70 per year for homeowners.

'Hands Across America' to miss Northwest suburbs

Hands Across America, the Bicentennial brainchild conceived to link Americans hand-in-hand from the Atlantic to Pacific Oceans on July 4, will not pass through the Northwest suburbs or downtown Chicago.

Illinois chairman Mark Inda has announced a route which will enter the state just south of Chicago and proceed west to Aurora.

The human chain, it is hoped, will proceed south through Ottawa, Peoria and Springfield before crossing the Mississippi River at St. Louis.

An alternative route would have proceeded south through Champaign and Effingham before heading west to St. Louis.

THERE WAS NO CHANCE, Inda said, Hands Across America was going to pass through the Northwest Suburbs.

"That would have added distance up and back," he said. "It's a double-up. The whole idea is to make this project feasible. That would have doubled our work."

Inda cited greatest local support, population density, highway conditions and access to news media as important criteria in route selection.

He said the Illinois organization has spent approximately $1,500, still has not gotten past planning stages and hopes to begin enlisting hand holders on April 1.

An organizational meeting will be at 7 p.m., next Wednesday at the Villa Park Recreational Center, 320 E. Wildwood, Villa Park.

Interested citizens can contact Inda at Illinois Valley Community College in Oglesby, 815-224-6341.

"It will be important to the success of the project that there are participants from all over the state so that we, the people of Illinois, will have the best put together line in the country," Inda said.

Des Plaines leads with 12 outbreaks

Suburbs hit by 221 TB cases in '75

A total of 221 new cases of tuberculosis were reported in suburban Cook County in 1975 by the Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District.

In Des Plaines, 12 new cases were reported, more than in any other Cook County suburb.

A total of 32 cases were identified in the Northwest suburbs, including Arlington Heights, 2; Buffalo Grove, 1; Elk Grove Village, 2; Hoffman Estates, 1; Mount Prospect, 6; Palatine, 4; Rolling Meadows, 1; and Schaumburg, 3.

Countywide, 192 TB cases were identified as "typical," a 13.1 per cent decrease over the 1974 level. And 29 cases were called "atypical," a 31.8 per cent increase.

THE "ATYPICAL" INFECTION, which seems to be highly concentrated in Cook County suburbs, is considered technically noncontagious to human beings, said Dr. Edward A. Piszczek of the sanitarium district.

It simulates "typical" TB in X-ray and clinical diagnosis and is similarly destructive to the human lungs. The mode of transmission of the "atypical" disease presently is unknown, he said.

The number of prior TB cases in a particular suburb, an influx of immigrant persons who may have had contact with the disease and large numbers of over-worked residents may account for differences in the number of TB cases among suburbs, said Priscilla Ries, coordinator of records for the sanitarium distsrict.

"If there is a residue of old TB cases in a suburb that has had a long-settled population, it could spawn new cases," she said.

"Or if there are increasing numbers of immigrants from medically undeveloped countries who may have contracted the disease and had only a month or two of treatment instead of 1-2 years medication normally prescribed for an active case."

A PERSON WHO IS run down from overwork also can be a target for TB, Miss Ries said.

"In a suburb with a lot of young couples, a fellow may be working two jobs to pay for a house, working weekends in the yard, really burning the candle at both ends."

She declined to comment on whether differences in air quality also may contribute to variations in the number of TB cases.

The use of anti-tuberculosis drugs in the prevention of TB after initial exposure is well known today, Piszczek said, and the greatest reduction in typical cases occurred among persons under 20 years of age where only nine new active cases were reported.

"Parents' interest in the care of their children in seeking early medical attention when the disease or exposure occurs is well reflected in our statistics," Piszczek said.

The incidence of TB in men is usually twice as high as women. But in suburban Cook County, women accounted for 44.7 per cent of the cases.

The Suburban Cook County Tuberculosis Sanitarium District is the official reporting agency for TB statistics in the county. Doctors are required by law to report all cases of TB because of the contagious nature of the disease.

heart arrangements made completely of flowers, or candy and flowers arranged inside a brandy snifter, she said.

"It's a nice idea some people have. Then, there's the man who brings in a miniature toilet and asks us to put flowers in it for his wife," said Manuel Lara, manager of Ray's Flowers and Gifts, Des Plaines.

"So who can say what is proper for sentimental value?" he said.

Yet, no one can deny the frills, ribbons, and roses are still the biggest sellers. Florists will easily go through thousands of roses this weekend.

"A lot of people don't want to be out of the ordinary," said Mary Skala, manager of Pesche's Flowers and Gifts, Des Plaines.

CONFECTIONERS CAN avoid those problems.

A $30, four-pound heart filled with different chocolates is not a big seller for the Dutch Mill Candy Store in Randhurst, Mount Prospect. But it makes an eye-catching window display.

"We sell about four of them for Valentine's Day. Our big seller is our two-pound heart of chocolates," said Betty Coulter, manager.

Five-and 10-ounce candy kisses are big this year, as are brown bags filled with candy delights, she said.

But it's a place like Morkes Chocolate Shop, Palatine, where the unusual candy orders surface.

"CUSTOMERS GIVE US engagement rings and jewelry to pack into a heart filled with chocolates," said owner William Morkes.

And it's not uncommon for a man to take a $5 heart home to his wife and send a $10 heart to his sweetheart, Morkes said.

"But, that's love. It comes in all sizes, in all orders," he said.

Sour ring at Civic Center? ICC halts 20c phone calls

United Press International

The Illinois Commerce Commission issued a temporary order Friday instructing Illinois Bell Telephone Co. to stop charging 20 cents a call from public telephones in the Civic Center.

Marvin S. Lieberman, the ICC chairman, said he asked Illinois Bell to reduce its charges to the old 10-cent per call rate until bilingual signs had been posted prominently near the telephones.

The commission on Feb. 4 approved Bell's request to raise public call rates provided callers could reach the operator without money. A second provision called for signs in English and Spanish to be posted instructing callers how to reach the operator and emergency numbers without depositing money.

Illinois Bell began its conversion of pay telephones in the Civic Center Wednesday.

After the signs have been posted, Lieberman said, the new 20-cent rate must be delayed one day for each day the phones had been operated in violation of the conditions.

January wholesale prices remain steady

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices remained level in January as food and farm products dropped for the third straight month to offset boosts for manufactured goods, the Labor Department reported Friday.

The wholesale index, which normally is a precursor of price behavior at the retail level, has shown virtually no change since October.

But the January index was 4.4 per cent above the same period a year earlier, and at 179.4 meant that wholesale goods costing $100 in the 1967 base year cost $179.40 last month.

Over the past three months, farm and food product prices have declined at a compound annual rate of 20 per cent, providing the administration good election-year news on its fight against inflation.

However, government economists say they expect the lowering wholesale price trend to level off in the near future, along with the general improvement in the inflation picture.

Following a 1.8 per cent increase in October, wholesale prices were unchanged in November and dropped 0.4 per cent in December. This produced an overall compound annual drop of 1.7 per cent over the three-month period.

In January, wholesale prices for farm products and processed foods and feeds fell by 1.8 per cent, while costs of manufactured goods, which make up 80 per cent of the items measured, increased at the lowest rate in six months — 0.4 per cent.

Broken down, the decline was 2.8 per cent for farm products and 1.5 per cent for foods and feeds.

Administration experts were particularly pleased with the improvement in wholesale industrial prices, which had risen at an annual rate of 8.6 per cent compounded over the past six months.

Price drops were registered for poultry, cattle, beef and veal, eggs, pork, cereal and bakery products, dairy products and fresh vegetables which had advanced sharply in December.

Prices for fuel and power, which also increased the previous month, dropped in January. Items showing an increase included lumber, wood products and nonmetallic mineral products.

Costs of residual fuels, gasoline, natural gas and bituminous coal declined, more than offsetting increases for light and middle distillate oils, electric power and crude petroleum.

Mohammed loyalists foil coup attempt

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — Forces loyal to the military government of Brig. Gen. Murtala Mohammed crushed an attempted coup by dissident army officers Friday, Radio Lagos said.

The radio said the pro-Mohammed troops "foiled" the attempt to overthrow the strongman's seven-month-old regime and rounded up the "dissident elements."

"The situation is under control but a dusk-to-dawn curfew throughout the country is still in force in the interests of security," the announcement said.

It said the aborted coup was planned by a Lt. Col. B.S. Dimka of the Army Physical Education Corps, and by others.

IT GAVE NO other details, but there were reports Dimka belonged to the same tribe as Gen. Yakubu Gowon, who was ousted by Mohammed last July 29.

The radio made no mention of the fate of Mohammed. A bullet-riddled and blood-splattered black Mercedes lay abandoned since dawn at a street corner near Mohammed's military headquarters in this steamy port capital, but it was not known if the car had carried him.

The Special Military Council was meeting late in the evening, and troops were deployed throughout Lagos to enforce the curfew. Witnesses said calm prevailed throughout the capital, although shooting was heard sporadically throughout the day in and around the barracks.

The coup apparently failed because of lack of support from other parts of the oil-rich West African state, the most populous on the continent.

The commander of the first Infantry Division there, Maj. Gen. I.A. Akinrina said. "The confusion in Lagos is perpetrated by a handful of officers in Lagos who are now being rounded up. You are advised to go about your normal business."

SAN LUIS OBISPO County Sheriff John Pierce surveys damage done by a bomb blast to a luxurious room in a guest house at the Hearst Castle at San Simeon, Calif. Terrorists, in a message to the Hearst family Friday, promised more of the same unless $250,000 was given within 48 hours to the defense funds of Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris.

Patty tells of constant death threat

said, and she screamed. Some one hit her with a rifle butt in the left cheek — she pointed to the spot on her face — and she lost consciousness for a few moments.

"The next thing I knew somebody grabbed me and I was in the trunk of a car," she said.

The car drove off but stopped a short distance and she was transferred to the back of a station wagon. In the car were five people whom she later learned were DeFreeze, Harris, Miss Atwood, Nancy Ling Perry and Emily Harris.

She was taken to a building and led up a couple flights of stairs and put in the closet. Blindfolded, she did not realize where she was.

"Had you heard the name Barbara Jean Mackle," Bailey asked.

"Yes."

"Who was she?"

"She was a girl in Florida. She was kidnaped and they put her in a box and buried her. I was afraid that was what they were doing to me."

Miss Hearst said they told her they were the SLA and that she was being held as a prisoner of war. They said if anything happened to their comrades the same thing would happen to me.

The defendant said she later realized they were talking about Joseph Remiro and Russell Little, SLA members held for the murder of Oakland School Supt. Marcus Foster. . .

"Cinque told me if I tried to escape he would kill me," she said.

"And the girls said if I made any noise I would be beaten and they would hang me up from the ceiling."

Miss Hearst said DeFreeze told her that four other persons had been kidnaped across the United States the same night and that the purpose was to start a revolution.

She said he told her that her parents had "committed crimes against the people" and that I could be tried for what they had done.

After a few days, she said, Cinque said she was going to make a tape recording giving the demands of the SLA. She said he got in the closet with her and gave her the microphone with an on-off switch.

"He would tell me what to say and then I would turn it on and say what he told me. Then I would shut it off and he would tell me some more and I would say a few words."

Bailey then had played in court for the jury the first tape recording. In it Patty told her parents she was all right and had not been harmed but that they should meet the demands of the SLA.

After it was finished, the lawyer asked, "Was Cinque pleased with the way you had done?"

"Yes."

The trial was recessed until Tuesday.

Meanwhile, a terrorist group demanded Patty's parents pay $250,000 to a defense fund for Symbionese Liberation Army members William and Emily Harris within 48 hours or face more bombings like the $1 million explosion at the Hearst seaside palace at San Simeon.

The New World Liberation Front claimed responsibility for the bombing Thursday at the guest house of the $50 million enclave built by William Randolph Hearst, Miss Hearst's grandfather.

The terrorists Friday sent a communique to United Press International and other news organizations asking for the money and demanding that the Hearsts "stop the lying that is designed to save Patty and bury the Harrises."

Neighbors quizzed in Mineo murder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sheriff's homicide detectives Friday questioned apartment neighbors in the stabbing murder of actor Sal Mineo. One unofficial source said they were checking on a "drug angle" in the case.

Mineo, twice nominated for Oscars and best known for his portrayal of mixed-up kids in such films as "Rebel Without a Cause," was felled with a single knife thrust to the chest at the rear carport area of the West Hollywood apartment house where he lived just below the Sunset Strip.

The coroner's office reported an autopsy showed the slim, dark-haired actor "died of a massive hemorrhage due to stab wounds of the chest penetrating the heart." A "heavy type knife" was the death weapon, according to assistant coroner Don Drynan who said there were no other injuries apparent on the body.

A WHITE MALE with long hair and wearing dark clothes was seen fleeing the scene and detectives questioned apartment house residents in the hope of getting a full description of him. All deputies were asked to be on the lookout for such a person.

A resident of the apartment house who did not want his name made public mentioned "the drug angle" and said detectives were looking into the possibility that the assailant may have been a drug addict lurking at the carport area to rob a returning resident.

'I'll be in this ball game until last whistle': Ford

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — President Ford, vowing to "be in this ball game until the last whistle," started a catch-up campaign Friday for Florida's March 9 primary against Ronald Reagan, who has beaten the President in two local straw polls.

Ford told regional news conference, "I think we will win in Florida." But he also said "losing in Florida won't deter me one bit from continuing the effort right up to Kansas City," where the GOP holds its national convention in August.

He criticized Reagan for "nit-picking" his foreign policy.

Ford told a crowd of 1,000 greeting him at the airport, "I've come to listen to the questions of the people and to make certain they know what my policies are."

At the news conference, he said it was "vitally important" to raise the Social Security tax rate by 0.3 per cent effective next Jan. 1 to make sure the trust fund does not run dry.

FORD SAID Reagan's statement that the only benefit America has derived from detente has been the right to sell Pepsi-Cola in Siberia was "campaign rhetoric." He said "we have a good foreign policy and we're going to keep it up with peace through strength."

"I think our allies understand what's going on," he said. "They have been through American political campaigns before."

"I think I will do well in Florida," Ford said. A loss to Reagan would be a "severe disappintment," he said, but "I'm going to be in this ball game until the whistle blows."

A brass band led by Mickey Mouse — courtesy of nearby Disney World — greeted Ford when he stepped from his plane into the Florida sunshine. A group of Camp Fire Girls had a big red heart inscribed, "To Our All-American Valentine."

Ford got down on one knee to pose in front of the Valentine, and grinned as girls took turns kissing him on the cheek.

The President stood up in the limousine and waved to the crowd as his motorcade moved from Orlando's jetport into the city, where he kicked off his Florida campaign at the news conference.

As he has done in New Hampshire and elsewhere, Ford planned to shun the meet-the-people stumping style in favor of a strategy that stresses his image as the incumbent President and party leader, meeting primarily with elected officials or campaign workers and skipping the streetcorners and shopping centers.

BUT LOCAL campaign workers added some Florida-style pizzazz to his visit: A group of kilted musicians and dancing girls dubbed the Budget Saver Bagpipe Band who were accompanying him through the state.

Ford solidified his "budget saver" image by vetoing a $2.6 billion public works bill designed to create 600,000 jobs for recession victims just before he left Washington for Orlando.

Campaign aides said he would stress in Florida some ecnomic and social messages bound to be popular among the vast population of fixed-income retired persons: control of inflation, his proposal for expanding Medicare aid for catastrophic illness and crime prevention.

Before Ford left Washington, Orlando police received a report that an unidentified man had been overheard saying he planted a bomb in the motel where the Ford campaign headquarters are located. Many occupants elected to remain inside the motel while police and firemen searched the premises. Ford was not scheduled to visit the building.

Police said later no bomb was found. All rooms were checked for explosives.

5 presidential candidates visit 'Sunshine State'

by United Press International

The presidential campaign trail led to Florida this weekend for five Democratic and Republican candidates — including latecomer Gerald Ford — driving for votes in the crucial March 9 state primary.

Criss-crossing the Sunshine State between Friday and Sunday — but mostly avoiding each other — were Alabama Gov. George Wallace, former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, Ronald Reagan and Ford, the only candidate making his initial 1976 Florida campaign appearance.

Pennsylvania's Democratic Gov. Milton Shapp meant to go too, but a case of the flu confined him to be at home.

Indications to date are that no candidate in either party has established himself a a clear favorite for primary victory, a plum that provides both a block of national convention delegates and the prestige of a "winners image."

Ford campaign aides said they expected a photo-finish with Reagan, who was making his eighth campaign appearance here today and has beaten Ford twice in local straw polls.

On the Democratic side, Wallace, the 1972 winner, was getting especially strong competition this time from Carter. Jackson has also stumped the state frequently.

The nation

Navy asks for additional ships, missiles

The Navy's secretary and its top officer asked the Defense Department Friday for more ships, submarines and missiles to match the growing seapower of the Soviet Union and rebuild the losses from the Vietnam War. Pentagon sources said the request included a fleet of at least 600 ships by the late 1980s, including a considerable number of new submarines and surface vessels armed with guided missiles. This compares to a current budget calling for 525 ships by 1985.

California quake possibility studied

Government geologists have detected a land uplift of as much as 10 inches along a large section of the notorious San Andreas fault 40 miles north of Los Angeles, it was reported Friday. Such ground swells sometimes are followed by earthquakes. Adding to the concern of the U.S. Geological Survey is the fact that the kidney-shaped uplift occurs astride a section of the San Andreas fault that has remained locked since a great earthquake in 1857. Scientists said considerable strain could be building up in the area.

High court keeps ban on red dye

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger Friday refused to lift the government ban on use of Red No. 2, the popular dye, pending a lower court ruling on whether the ban will be permanent. The ban became effective Thursday.

Lockheed chairman resigns

The chairman of the board and vice chairman of Lockheed Aircraft Corp., resigned Friday at a special meeting after weeks of controversy over bribes amounting to millions of dollars paid to foreign officials.

Morocco claims Spanish Sahara control

Morocco Friday claimed its troops are in full control of the last two major guerrilla strongholds in the former Spanish Sahara, including the desert headquarters of the Algerian-backed Polisario Front. The Moroccans are trying to establish control over the Sahara before Spain formally pulls out of the mineral-rich African territory on Feb. 28.

Rioting sweeps Belfast

Rioting swept Roman Catholic areas of Belfast Friday, bombs ignited fires in downtown Dublin and police defused a time bomb in a London subway station which could have caused a disaster. Three persons have been killed in Belfast rioting since the death Thursday of Frank Stagg, 34, a convicted IRA bomber who died in an English jail after 61 days of hunger strike. London police said a subway system official found a 20-pound bomb planted in an attache case in the Oxford Circus subway station, one of London's busiest.

Judge Dan Ryan's son murdered

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (UPI) — Daniel J. Ryan Jr., 28, son of Cook County Circuit Judge Daniel Ryan of Chicago, was shot to death early Friday in an argument over occupancy of a rented house.

Accused of first degree murder is Robert Manning, 28, life-long friend and business partner of the victim.

Police said Manning and Ryan, both of Chicago, grew up together and were partners in a restaurant business which failed recently. The two came to Coral Gables on a combination business and vacation trip and Manning rented a house here.

Manning returned to Chicago recently on a business trip and told Ryan before leaving that he wanted Ryan out of the house when he returned, a police spokesman said. When Manning returned from Chicago about 2 a.m. Friday, he found Ryan and two female companions in the house.

The two men began fighting. During the fight, Manning got a 9mm hand gun and returned to Ryan's bedroom. Manning then shot Ryan once, police said, killing him.

Muhammad Ali arrested again

People

• State Trooper Douglas Murphy now can claim a feat even Joe Frazier hasn't accomplished — stopping Muhammad Ali twice. The 28-year-old trooper was patroling a section of Interstate 94 near St. Joseph, Michigan Thursday and spotted a 1971 Rolls Royce convertible racing with a Datsun 240B at speeds exceeding 105 miles per hour. The trooper pulled them over and driving the Rolls Royce was world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali. In the other car was John Demas, 24, of Chicago. Murphy said he stopped Ali for the same offense last year.

• Nancy Kissinger continues to improve after the removal of a large part of her stomach last week by surgeons at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. Physicians are "impressed" with her recuperation from last Saturday's operation.

Roomful of memories on auction block

Duchess of Windsor and Carole Lombard.

Contents and memories of the 38-year history of the room will go today to the beckoning chant of the auctioneer.

At 12:30 p.m. today, Col. Harold Pick of Winnetka's Pick Galleries Inc. will call for bids and the premiere room of Chicago society will go up for sale at the hotel, 1300 N. State Pkwy. The Pump Room, now closed, will reopen in several months, said a hotel spokesman.

If it was in the room, and in some cases just associated with it, it will be up for the highest bidder.

THE ROOM was elegance in blue and ivory with mirrored columns.

It was modeled after the Pump Room in Bath, England, and it paid lavish tribute from portraits to carpeting.

Chandeliers of Irish Waterford crystal light the carpeting woven with the triple plume emblem of the Prince of Wales. The upholstered chairs, including a child's booster seat, reflect the same pattern.

They will be sold.

BEHIND THE BAR hangs the portrait of Beau Richard Nash, the man who ruled 18th Century Bath "by the cut of his coat," according to legend.

It was painted by Sandor Klein, the only American to win the Pulitzer Prize for painting.

It will be sold.

Waiters in pink hunting coats served champagne in silver buckets. The coffee boy wore a turban topped with three giant ostrich feathers.

The costumes will be sold.

ON THE WALL is the page board. It now reads "End," but once it was carried by the coffee boy to announce telephone calls.

"It wasn't thought to be chic to call it out if there was a message for someone," said Lucia Perrigo of the hotel's public relations department. "It was nicer to have the little bell on the board tinkling."

The giant silver roast beef cart, too, will be sold at the auction.

Two chairs in the hotel lobby will go for sale as well, although they were not part of the Pump Room. The chairs, complete with placques, were used by the Duke of Edinburgh and Queen Elizabeth during their visit to Chicago in 1959 for the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

THE "PUP ROOM" fountain will be offered, as well. The fountain stood on the corner of N. State Parkway so the Gold Coast dogs would have a place to get a lap of water. The basin is shell shaped and a statue of a Whippet is flanked with Corinthian columns.

But the furnishings were just sidelights to the room's main feature: Watching the great and near great who came to be seated in Booth 1.

The Booth was christened appropriately when the room opened in 1938.

Again a discreet plaque. "Gertrude Lawrence. Booth 1 is her domain. She ruled for 90 unforgettable nights when the Pump Room opened Oct. 1, 1938."

IT WAS THE booth to see and be seen. Noel Coward, Elizabeth Taylor, Frank Sinatra, Richard Burton — they were all there.

The Booth is item 108 and its table is item 405. They will be sold.

Mrs. Perrigo looked around the room and touched the tole tulips and said the crystal, silver and china were being sorted in another room.

"But the Pump Room was people," she said.

Piano that serenaded Chicago Society.

ting to the board's proposals.

The board's proposed teacher cuts would raise class size to an average of 27, a figure Modec terms "digestible."

"Class size is important, but if you have support staff to go with it (a larger class), you can get by," Modec said. He cited learning center directors, learning disabilities teachers, and aides as important support staff.

Modec called the staff cuts "unfortunate" since "we finally reached the point where we were getting really quality education.

"WHEN YOU MAKE a cut, it hurts everybody," he said, but he speculated there would be enough resignations at the end of the school year so some of the laid-off teachers would be rehired.

Concerning the tax referendum, Modec said, "The important thing that the people of the community have to realize is that the state legislature and Gov. (Daniel) Walker don't deem it necessary to give full funding." About 6 per cent of promised state aid to education was cut in August by Walker.

The burden of financing the school systems "is going to have to fall on the homeowners," Modec said.

The board met Thursday as a committee-of-the-whole and could not take formal action on its proposals. The board will discuss the referendum and budget cuts at a committee meeting March 1 and will consider formal action at its regular board meeting March 11.

Regret greets news of imminent closing of school

the time,'" said North Principal Richard Nickelsen.

"The people I've talked to think the board made the decision in an appropriate manner. The people have some allegiance to the school and they care about it, but there is a degree of understanding of the situation the board is in," Nickelsen said.

Nickelsen is in his first year as a Dist. 25 principal after working as assistant principal at Rand Junior High School and a teacher in the district.

"The thoughts I have are of a more personal nature," he said of the closing. "I've had a chance to build some friendships that will sorely be missed in the future. But I'm very confident the students will receive a quality education whether it be at North, Olive (School), Windsor (School) or wherever."

Nickelsen said teachers also understand and accept the reasoning behind the closing.

"THEY'RE ACCEPTING that this may be a better choice than to have to deal with program reductions," he said. "Our task is certainly one for the kids. We have to operate within the parameters that are offered to us."

Mrs. Anderson said she believes there would be a lot more dissension over the school closing "if there were busing involved."

The board has set tentative boundaries that would send children to Ridge, Windsor, Olive and Kensington schools. Most children will be able to walk to their new schools.

"The boundary plan will eliminate children having to cross major roads. It will be a longer walk for some of them, but at least the safety of the children is taken into consideration," she said.

Gym drama tonight; six teams battle

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

To the six coaches with full teams competing it is "The Meet That Nobody Will Run Away With."

Tonight at Hersey High School the Huskies will be trying for their fourth straight Mid-Suburban League gymnastics crown, but a host of talented performers from Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows, Prsopect, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove will make this the most closely fought conference meet in recent history.

The fun will begin at 7 p.m. The sophomores will battle for their crown, with Hersey again the defending champion, at 2:00 p.m.

"It's going to be close," said Hersey head man Don Von Ebers. "And we've got some problems."

Foremost is the recurrence of a rib seperation injury to all-arounder Danny Muenz. Yet, despite pain throughout Hersey's final dual meet with Palatine, Muenz fashioned an 8.13 all-around average for the third best score posted in the league this year.

Muenz also shares the top mark of the year, an 8.21, with Elk Grove's Gene Christensen and the duel between them will provide an exciting counterpoint to the torrid team fight.

"Danny threw an 8.2 on his P-Bars set," Von Ebers said, "and that's when the pain really got to him. He had hurt himself warming up before the meet but didn't tell me until after his P-Bars.

"He's a gutty little kid and he won't hold back. Everything is at stake for him now."

The Huskies lack the depth of previous championship clubs and injuries have dogged them all season. Still, they won the North Division title.

Ray Peters, who was out part of the season with a knee injury, is back to give a shot in the arm on free ex and trampoline. Vince Corrado, an early season favorite on still rings, is just coming off a shoulder injury and got through his whole set for the first time in two weeks against Palatine.

Trampolinist Bob Barut owns the best score in the conference on that event.

The Elk Grove Grenadiers are the champions of the South Divsion and, besides Christensen, have a load of talented gymnasts.

The Grens overcame several problems this year and have been the most consistent 140-plus team in the league.

"The conference meet is up for grabs," said Elk Grove coach Fred Gaines. "Whoever executes as a team will win it. Every team in the league has a weakness."

Elk Grove's, like Hersey, is depth. The Grens will be running only three performers on most events. But the top men on each are among the best in the conference.

Arlington splashes to title; Tague sets two marks

by BOB GALLAS
Swimming Editor

The Arlington swim team took four firsts and breezed to its fourth consecutive Mid-Suburban League swimming title Friday night.

Never threatened, the Cards from Arlington easily outdistanced nearest challenger Prospect by 74 points, 244 to 170.

Though the Cards won the meet, some individual performances created much of the excitement. Chris Tague of Hersey won two events and in the process set two new league marks in the 200-and 500-yard freestyle events. Rolling Meadows' Tom Stahnke also took two events and broke his own league record in the butterfly.

Tague's 1:45.346 in the 200-yard freestyle broke Joe Nitch's record of 1:47.203 set last year. Tague also creamed Nitch's record in the 500-yard freestyle with a 4:42.175, knocking almost eight seconds off the former Arlington swimmer's mark of 4:50.286, also set last year.

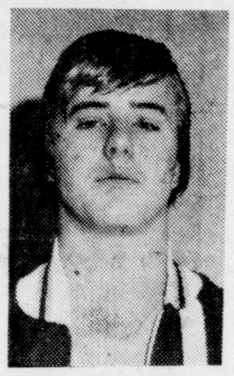
Stahnke broke his own record in winning the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 54.256 seconds, which broke a mark set last year of 56.855. Stahnke also won the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 22.834.



Tom Stahnke

A beaming Card coach Don Andersen took a fourth consecutive dip in the pool, courtesy of his team, after the meet. Andersen praised his team's effort.

"If somebody let down, somebody was there to pick up and do better than they were expected to do," Andersen said. "I think the key to the meet came in the 50-yard freestyle when our boys (Jeff Zawadzki and Kevin Lotzer) who were picked to finish sixth and 12th, finished third and seventh."

Buffalo Grove took third in the competition to finish in a third place tie in the final league standings with Elk Grove. Elk Grove's disappointing fifth place finish in the meet dropped them from second to third in the final standings, which are computed by combining league dual meets and conference meet standings.

Mike Roessler of Arlington also set a new league mark in the breaststroke. His time of 1:04.752 nipped former Elk Grove star Scott Bolin's 1973 record of 1:04.9.

A surprise finisher at the meet was Forest View, a team that won only two of seven league starts this season. The Falcons started out with a second place finish in the opening event, the 200-yard medley relay. Their freshman sensation, Tom Redig, took first in the 200-yard individual medley.

The top seeded Redig fell behind second-seeded Steve Nowack of Arlington early, in the backstroke portion of the race, then caught him at the final turn of the freestyle portion and turned it on to edge out Nowack by about half a second.

"The backstroke has been a problem to him (Redig). He's been concentrating on it the last two weeks," said Falcons coach Mike Stevens. "He's (Redig) really a distance freestyler, but we needed him elsewhere this year and he's performed well."

The Cards took both relays along with first in the breaststroke and a surprise first in the 100-yard freestyle, won by number four seeded sophomore Steve Nitch.

Maine West tankers 4th in league

Glenbrook North, as expected, totally dominated the Central Suburban League's South Division Conference Swimming Meet Friday night, but Maine West captured a solid fourth place.

"We anticipated our place, there were no surprises," Warrior coach Scott Chovanec said. "We almost had the same number of points as we figured on paper. I was very pleased with our team's performance."

Maine West garnered 137 points, far behind the impressive 331 earned by Glenbrook North, the 198 by Maine East and the 197 by Glenbrook South. Niles North finished fifth with 117, Maine South followed with 92, Niles East with 11 and Niles West failed to score.

Highlighting the Warriors' effort was diver Steve Dunham who totalled 293.70 for a third-place medal. Both Maine West's relay teams picked up fourth-place finishes for important points.

Casey Schlachter notched sixth in the 50-yard freestyle in :23.39, but was only off the second-place mark by .06. Casey came right back in the 100 freestyle for a duplicate sixth in :51.5.

Adding a third sixth place performance and earning nine valuable team points was Randy Roel's 1:01.8 clocking in the 100-yard backstroke.

FAST START. Hersey's Chris Tague (right) flies out of the starting blocks alongside Prospect's Tom Cole. The pair finished one-two in this event, the 200-yard freestyle, as Tague's time of 1:45.346 set a new Mid-Suburban League record in Friday night's conference championships. Cole's time was 1:51.871. Tague also set a new record in winning the 500-yard freestyle.

Forest View bowls into state lead

PEORIA, Ill. — The Forest View girls' bowling team, under the direction of coach Pam Frase, performed brilliantly under pressure Friday and assumed a 54-pin lead after quarterfinal competition in Peoria. Rolling Meadows failed to make the eight-team cut.

Forest View toppled 4,808 pins to head the field with Abingdon perched in second with 4,754, followed by Aurora West's 4,695, Rockford East's 4,619, Huntley's 4,540, Elgin's 4,540, Litchfield's 4,532 and Evergreen Park's 4,528.

Consistency was the rule for the Falcons who are hoping to match the state title the school earned in 1974.

But one of the exceptions was Judy Pleichardt who assaulted the pins for a blistering 581 series off games of 202, 198 and 181, her best effort of the year.

Pleichardt unleashed the hefty three-game block after opening with a 471 series. Julie Mathews contributed 496 and 480, Cheryl Hanson 484 and 434, Nancy Lachus 521 and 507, Debbie Compton a 422 and Linda Desrosiers a 411.

"I'm very happy with the girls' performance so far," Frase said. "They're really doing a fine job. I just hope they can keep it up."

In qualifying for the semi-finals, Forest View will continue adding to its 4,808 total at 9 o'clock this morning. The finals are scheduled for 1 p.m. with only the top four teams advancing for the showdown.

SPINNING A GOLD medal, Dorothy Hammill exhibits assurance and grace while earning near-perfect scores from the judges.

Dorothy wins with solid gold effort

In keeping with the great tradition of the theater, they showered Dorothy Hamill with flowers Friday night after she turned in a truly professional performance to win the highest amateur honor open to her — the Olympic figure skating championship.

Dorothy, of Riverside, Conn., was superb in executing the difficult spins and jumps that go with a championship performance, and while all she won was a gold medal, a lucrative monetary award as a professional could come her way tomorrow should this be her desire.

Hamill, 19, did not just win the championship. She grabbed it with both hands, and feet, and such was her dominance that her closest rival, world champion Dianne de Leeuw of the Netherlands, missed two jumps as she tried desperately to come from behind.

Dorothy, runnerup in the last two world championships, finished with a perfect ordinal score of 9.0 (judges first place points) from the nine judges, while totalling 193.80 points in the three-phase competition.

The judges awarded Hamill a complete set of 5.9's out of a possible 6.0 for artistic impression, while she scored between 5.8 and 5.9 for technical merit. De Leeuw, 20, a resident of Paramount, Calif., finished second with 20.0-190.24, while former world champion Christine Errath of East Germany scored 28-188.16 for the bronze medal.

Wendy Burge of Los Angeles finished sixth and Linda Fratianne of Northridge, Calif., was eighth.

...But no other medals

The United States finished out of the medals on the slopes, trails and ice oval, but Dorothy Hamill's gold in figure skating completely overshadowed her teammate's earlier failures.

Canadian teenager Kathy Kreiner dashed West German Rosi Mittermaier's bid to become the first woman ever to win three gold medals at an Olympics by capturing the giant slalom by 12/100th of a second. Lindy Cochran was the best placed of the four Americans in 12th, Mary Seaton was 17th, Cindy Nelson 21st and Leslie Smith 28th.

Dan Carroll finished fifth in the men's 1,500-meter speed skating event behind winner Jan Egil of Norway. Eric Heiden was seventh and Mike Woods 23rd. An outclassed U.S. quartet finished 11th in the field of 15 teams in the men's 30-kilometer biathlon as Russia added another gold.

The U.S. four-man bob sledders also hit rough going in the first two runs and stand 14th and 19th with the finals today. Also on tap is an expected bronze medal performance by the U.S. hockey team which meets West Germany.

Seattle suspends lawsuit

The City of Seattle agreed Friday to suspend a multi-million dollar lawsuit against the American League, paving the way for an expansion team to play in the King County Domed Stadium in 1977. Mayor West Uhlman said a majority of the City Council agreed to halt the legal action until the expansion team begins play. Then the city will drop the suit and its monetary demands.

Papers detailing terms of the agreement were to be signed later by attorneys representing the city and the league. Uhlman said Lee MacPahil, AL president, promised by telephone that the first available major league All-Star game would be played in Seattle. That game would be in 1979. The mayor said it was extremely important that there not be a repeat of Seattle's experience with the Pilots, an expansion franchise which played in the city for a single year before being transferred to Milwaukee in 1970.

Morley, Snead share Classic lead

Mike Morley shot a six-under-par Friday to tie defending champion J. C. Snead for the lead after two rounds of the $180,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open . . . Joanne Carner fired a seven-under-par 65 to grab the first-round lead in the annual $45,000 Orange Blossom Women's Golf Classic.

New baseball contract proposed

Baseball's Player Relations Committee offered the Players Assn. Friday a contract proposal in which eight-year veterans would be able to switch clubs after playing out the option year in their contracts, but the Players Assn. executive director, Marwin Miller, was not satisfied with the proposal . . .

Bennie Parsons dashed the final six laps following a caution flag Friday to win the International Race of Champions by inches over A.J. Foyt . . .

Southpaw Dave Davis rolled into the lead Friday with an 88-pin advantage over Billy Hardwick after 34 games of the $70,000 Fair Lanes Open on the Professional Bowlers Assn. tour . . .

Houston McTear, the Florida high school sprint sensation, celebrated his 19th birthday Friday night with a 5.9 second victory in the 60-yard dash in the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet . . .

BACKCOURT LEADER Gina Neri sets up a play for Wheeling at the Hersey tourney. Neri scored 16 and 12 points in Thursday's quarterfinal and semi-final rounds as Wheeling earned a championship berth.

Four schools show strength on district mats

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Maine West, Buffalo Grove, Palatine and Conant were the area schools keeping the most wrestlers alive as district competition was launched at four scattered sites Friday night.

The Warriors, competing at Ridgewood, marched grapplers into Saturday afternoon's semifinals while jumping into a commanding lead in that tournament. Buffalo Grove, meanwhile, pulled up second at Highland Park's meeting while advancing nine to the semis.

After the first round of action the Bison trailed the hosting Little Giants on the scoreboard by a narrow 30-28 margin while a favored Barrington unit slipped to fourth place at 21½ behind Glenbrook North's 28. Both the Bronchos and Spartans had eight individual wrestlers move up while Highland Park had ten.

Dundee also propelled ten into the semifinal round while scoring 27 points to take charge at the Crown district. Rolling Meadows claimed second place with 21 although they only managed to promote six individuals.

Palatine took over third at Crown with 18½ points by advancing eight wrestlers. Hersey was next with 17 and they moved up seven matmen.

At Elgin favored Addison Trail assumed a commanding 29½ to 21 lead over Elk Grove and the Blazers powered all but one of their 12-man team into the semifinals. The Grenadiers along with Elgin Larkin (17½), and Hoffman Estates (17½) advanced seven wrestlers while Conant with 15 points had eight entries survive first round combat.

Maine West, led by rookie Don Arrigo, were still alive in 10 of 12 divisions after the first round of action and with 25 points were well ahead of a pack that included Notre Dame (17½), Maine South (16), Maine East (15½), Maine North (15) and the host Rebels (14).

Arrigo, at 126, opened in a preliminary bracket and had to post two wins to qualify for Saturday's semifinals. He capped his workout with an impressive 12-2 verdict and will go against top-seeded Jack Beals of Maine North next.

Prospect also had an inexperienced grappler win two straight. And Knight Jim Audet at 167 was equally impressive as he pinned in his second bout to earn a crack at top-ranked Dan Barringer of the Warriors.

In terms of advancing numbers at Ridgewood, behind Maine West were the Demons with seven and the Norsemen, Hawks, Dons and hosts with half a dozen apiece.

Prospect still had three alive in the winner's bracket after Friday while Forest View's triumphant lineup had been trimmed to one 98-pound Mike Lucansky.

At Highland Park Wheeling had three still going strong after Friday including heavyweight Ken Kent, who pinned to gain a shot at top seeded Parker Dave Pearson (22-7-2).

Buffalo Grove's advancing group included undefeated Rich Wilhelm at 126, who ran his streak to 33 in awesome fashion by building up a 21-2 lead and then sticking his foe.

The Bison ranks did not include second seeded Brian Gibbons however. The 185-pounder pulled up with the flu just prior to the tournament and had to withdraw.

At Elgin, the meet was topped unexpectedly when Cougar Rich Johnson upset top-seeded John Cobos of Addison Trail 3-2 in a heavyweight finale. Another Conant entry though, second-seeded Ed Armstrong, fell sick and lost by default.

Freshman Al Blount of Schaumburg, the area's only other unbeaten grappler, pinned at 3:17 to run his record to 18-0-2. He was one of four Saxons advancing.

At Crown the script came off just about on cue with all the top seeds advancing, including Hersey's Dan Lococo at 132 and heavyweight Scott Zettek of St. Viator. Arlington had four wrestlers advance to the semis and the Lions qualified five.

Harper women take 3rd in state

The Harper women's gymnastics team took a third place in the Illinois Junior College tournament with a total of 80.85 points.

They were edged only by Triton (90.60) and Waubonsee (83.00) in the eight team field.

"This is better than we've ever done," said Harper coach Martha Lynn Bolt. "In six years the highest we've ever finished was fourth."

Harper was paced by Carol Moore, who finished second on the balance beam at 8.2 and Holly Woldenberg, who copped a fourth place on the uneven parallel bars at 7.20.

Sue Paster and Linda Pleckham carried the all-around duties for the Hawks, scoring 27.05 and 24.45 respectively.

Pleckham's highest mark was a 6.80 on vaulting while Paster's best individual effort came on floor exercise with a 7.25.

Carol Moore also had a 6.8 on vaulting and a 7.10 on floor exercise.

Saxons, Cougars triumph; headed for showdown

Although only one game shows in the box score, a convincing 74-54 win by Schaumburg, the Saxons and Prospect really played two contests Friday.

The first featured some dazzling shooting and pitted Prospect's speed and agility against the height and muscle of Schaumburg. In computer-like fashion, the strengths balanced each other and the teams fought to a 34-34 draw.

Then, after the intermission, fans in the Prospect fieldhouse saw a runaway by the Mid-Suburban League South Division leading Saxons.

Led by John McIlraith (20 points), Ed Chmiel (18) and John Chmiel (16), all hitting above their season averages, Schaumburg effectively controlled the boards and ultimately the game as they outscored the Knights 40-20 in the second half.

The first half saw Coach Bill Slayton's Knights twice take two point leds as Schaumburg was unable to get its bigger players back in time to defense the fast-running Knights.

Fifty-seven per cent shooting in the first quarter didn't hurt Prospect, but eventually they slipped to 39 per cent. The Saxons started at a 52 per cent clip and held it all the way.

Calling it a wide open game, Saxon Coach Joe Breault credited Prospect with a strong game while saying his defense might have been a littl lax in the first half.

"They (Prospect) were really playing some fine basketball," he said. "I was very disappointed with our defense in the first half . . . we were flat footed."

Breault takes his club into a showdown Tuesday with chief division challenger Conant and he admitted that game may have been on his players' minds Friday.

Chris Etter led Prospect, hitting some timely jumpers, with 18 points. Mike Wood had 10. Schaumburg won the battle of the boards decisively 35-16.

Schaumburg now is 9-2 in the division while Conant is 8-2. Prospect fell to 5-6.

CONANT TOPS HOFFMAN

The Conant Cougars combined a tough defense with the off-shooting of the Hoffman Estates Hawks to win the crosstown basketball showdown, 53-37.

"We're all ready for Schaumburg," said Conant coach Dick Redlinger, referring to his team's second meeting with the Saxons next Tuesday. "The last two games the kids have played real tremendous ball."

The Cougars, who trail the Saxons by one-half game in the South Division standings, put the contest out of reach in the middle quarters. Changing its defense almost every other time down the court, Conant built a 17-15 lead into a 25-16 halftime bulge. Rick Sulaski's 10 first half points led the way.

In the third quarter, the Cougars outscored the Hawks 14-2 en route to their 12th win in 19 games. They're 8-2 in the torrid South race.

"I think our defense confused them tonight," said Redlinger. The Cougars' variety of zones contributed to a 5-for-29 Hoffman cold spell from the field during the first three quarters. The Hawks only had one field goal in each of the two middle periods.

Sulaski, Conant's 6-foot-5 center, was a triple threat — scoring 16 points, grabbing 15 rebounds (both game-high totals) and helping hold pivotman Ron Warring to just one basket in the first three quarters. Warring had been red-hot last weekend, scoring 40 in two games.

"He's something, isn't he?" said Redlinger.

In the third quarter, guard Rob Totten led the way with six of his 12 points. Pete Scaffidi tossed in eight.

Hoffman Estates, now 3-7 in the MSL and 9-12 over-all, was led by Jeff Curtin and Gene Foster with six points each. Neither scored in the second half.

Thanks to the reserves' shooting 9-for-17 in the final quarter, Hoffman finished with a field goal percentage of 30. Conant shot 47 per cent.

Conant outrebounded Hoffman 30-23.

ELK GROVE STUNS FALCONS

Elk Grove's Grenadiers got one back Friday, avenging an earlier loss to Forest View by hammering the Falcons 69-39.

Dave Hornacek hit the first of his game high 20 points less than a minute into the first quarter and the Grens didn't look back as they posted their 17th win of the season.

"We've got a chance to win 20 games in the regular season," said Elk Grove head coach Bill Parmentier. "We just have to take them one at a time from here."

Elk Grove outgunned the Falcons from the floor, hitting 45 per cent, and got their usual balanced scoring with Mark Smith chipping in 18 and Mark Sass canning 13, all but two coming in the second half.

The Falcons shot just 23 per cent from the floor, being led by Nate Adams with 11 points.

"I wasn't pleased with our defense," Parmentier said. "We can play better than that. I didn't like the way they were penetrating on us."

The rematch, as could be expected, was played at a high emotional pitch the entire game. Adams and Gren guard Joe Parmentier engaged in a running war of words throughout, each smiling at the other's misfortunes.

"I've said before," Parmentier remarked, "any time Elk Grove and Forest View get on a basketball court there's going to be a lot of rivalry. Tonight was no different."

The Grens controlled the backboards with Hornacek and Smith grabbing 10 rebounds apiece.

TWO MORE. Buffalo Grove's Brian Allsmiller shoots over the outstretched arms of Hersey's Jay McDermott, left, and Tom Burzak during Mid-Suburban League drama Friday night. Allsmiller tossed in 28 points, but Hersey pulled out an impressive 60-54 victory.

Bison stumble, 'almost' clinch North cage title

Buffalo Grove lost, 60-54, to Hersey in a rowdy and rambunctious game Friday night, but the Bison put a slippery clinch on the mid-Suburban's North division basketball title despite the defeat.

The visiting Huskies of Hersey controlled the tempo of the contest almost from the start, jumping out to a seven-point lead on the shooting of Tom Frye and Tom Burzak. In hanging on for the victory, the Huskies avenged an earlier 47-41 loss to Buffalo Grove and moved their record to 7-2 in the North, one game behind the Bison with one yet to play.

Even in defeat, though, coach Paul Grady's Buffalo Grove youngsters virtually wrapped up the North championship in only their third year of varsity ball by holding Hersey to the six-point win.

A combination of a lopsided Buffalo Grove loss and a big Hersey win next week is all that could conceivably deprive the Bison of their title and a shot at the South division champ in the Feb. 25 playoff.

But Hersey handed the Bison (8-1) their first league loss in a game marked by smoke bombs, fire alarms, and a flagrant technical foul — all in front of an overflow crowd. Excellent play by the Huskies' guards offset another big night for Buffalo Grove's Brian Allsmiller, who had 28 points despite suffering the effects of the flu. The big man fouled out with 1:57 left.

Frye finished with 12 points, little Joe Pusatera had eight, and Scott Topczewski dropped in six. Hersey was led by 6-5 senior Clyde Glass, who had 14 points, including 10-for-10 from the free throw line. Glass hit six of his freebies in the fourth quarter when the Huskies opened up a 14-point lead before Allsmiller fouled out.

Burzak had 13 and Jay McDermott seven for Hersey.

"We had balanced scoring tonight," said Hersey coach Rog Steingraber, totaling up the points. "We got 26 from the guards — that's great."

Mike Ledna sparked a late comeback to pull the Bison to within six at the gun. Ledna finished with eight points.

"If you can be proud in defeat," said Grady, "I am."

CARDS WIN AT BUZZER

Arlington avoided possible defeat and probable overtime Friday night, as Greg Kloiber's last second jumper from the left of the key beat the buzzer and Wheeling, 42-40.

Kloiber's heroics capped a hectic fourth quarter rally by Arlington, which nearly ended in frustration for the host Cardinals. Trailing 30-24 at the outset of the final quarter, the Cards' pressure defense forced Wheeling into several costly turnovers.

A Tom North steal keyed the Arlington comeback with less than 4:30 remaining and Wheeling ahead by only one point, 32-31.

North's steal in the Wildcats' backcourt was quickly converted into a 33-32 Cardinal lead, when guard Frank DeSimone found Kloiber open underneath and threaded a perfect pass in traffic.

Moments later North's running mate at forward, Jim Grandt, followed suit with a steal at midcourt and a solo drive for two more points, and a 35-32 lead.

When Kloiber converted both ends of a one-and-one situation at 1:46, Arlington appeared somewhat secure with a 40-36 lead. Wheeling, which led at the end of every quarter, stunned the hosts with two quick baskets to tie the score at 40-all. A Keith Schildt tip-in with 0:20 remaining was the crucial play.

Arlington committed what appeared to be a most costly turnover with two seconds left. Wheeling, however, returned the favor without any time expiring, when an in-bounds pass went astray.

FREMD CRUISES

Fremd took advantage of a nearly five minute fourth quarter scoring drought by Palatine to break open a tight game and cruise to a 68-54 victory on the Vikings' court.

The Pirates remain in the cellar of the Mid-Suburban League's North Division at 0-9, while Fremd's slate moves to two wins against seven defeats.

The Vikings carried a slim 48-45 lead into the start of the final period, but a free throw and a jumper by Pirate scoring ace Kevin McKenna forged a 48-all tie with 7:35 remaining.

Fremd frontliner Paul Gillette then hit a hoop, but Doug Buenzow's free throw seconds later halted Palatine's scoring until only 1:52 was left, and the visitors found themselves in a futile game of catch-up.

Gillette converted a tip and another jumper to expand on his team's 50-49 lead, and Craig Rawlins and Dale Hallberg accounted for the Vikings in scoring the rest of the way. Hallberg, in fact, scored the hosts' final 10 points. Fremd had installed a "come and get us" man-to-man offense that opened the driving lanes for Hallberg.

Hallberg led his mates with 22 points, while Gillette hit 20 with a team-high 12 rebounds.

McKenna had 25 points to lead Palatine. Mark McCostlin wound up with 13 rebounds, high in that department for the Pirates, who were outboarded on the night 39-35.

Warriors fashion 63-59 win

Bob Zuccarini sank two free throws with 10 seconds remaining to break a 59-59 deadlock and give Maine West the edge to beat Glenbrook South 63-59 in a Central Suburban Conference thriller.

The Warriors broke fast and, working the ball inside for high percentage shots, they threatened to make the game a runaway. Maine West had an eight point lead at the end of the first quarter, and by the middle of the second quarter they were up by 11 at 28-17.

Glenbrook South roared back and outscored the Warriors 14-1 and by halftime they had grabbed 30-29 lead.

"We lost our patience," said Warrior coach Gaston Freeman. "This game takes patience and discipline and we fell apart in that second quarter."

The second half was close all the way and saw the lead change hands 12 times and the score tied six times.

Maine West fortunes looked grim when center Buddy Doroskin fouled out with 3:38 remaining in the third quarter, but Freeman's bench came through and split 17 points between Bill Finnis, Bill Kuemple, and Jim Lofgren.

It was Lofgren's free throw with 21 seconds left that knotted the score at 59, and set the stage for Zuccarini's heroics. It was also Lofgren who sank the final bucket to ice it for the Warriors.

Dave Kennedy who directed the Maine West attack, led the Warriors with 14 points, while Dave Fiske of the Titans led all scorers with 16 points, 14 in the first half.

Maine West 13-9 overall, and 8-4 in conference is host next Tuesday to Arlington. Glenbrook South is now 5-16, and 2-10 in conference.

Lions win by one over St. Patrick

St. Patrick substitute guard Mike Wilmot, who had been scoreless all night against St. Viator, was still without any points after being given the game's last shot Friday evening.

Because Wilmot's 20-footer bounced off the rim with no time remaining, St. Viator limped home with a 40-39 victory, upping its East Suburban Catholic record to 6-6.

The Lions and visiting Shamrocks played to a 2-2 third period standoff when the Lions committed eight turnovers.

Ralph Casciaro led St. Viator with 13 points on six field goals, all during the first half, plus one fourth period free throw.

Glenn Girard and Paul Wiloff, who led a late fourth period charge which won the game, finished with 12 points each. They were virtually no threat during the first three periods.

Casciaro's turnover with eight seconds remaining gave the Shamrocks their final opportunities. After the inbounds pass, Pete Bartzis drove the baseline, but missed his off-balance jumper from the left. And Tom Deely's rebound shot attempt would not drop.

But the ball was batted out-of-bounds with one second remaining, possession to St. Patrick. Following a timeout, Mark Deresinski passed into Wilmot who missed his long jumper, ending the game.

The Shamrocks of Max Kurland once led 25-16 during the second period when Kurland pulled nearly all his starters. Behind Girard's four points, Wiloff's two, Casciaro's two and Kevin Mulroy's one, the Lions pulled to just a 27-25 deficit at intermission.

Then followed the third period in which Steve Notaro scored Viator's field goal and Deresenski threw in one for the Shamrocks.

A four-point last period lead, 31-27 for St. Patrick, disappeared quickly as the Lions went on a 12-2 scoring binge for a 39-33 lead.

Girard scored six points, Wiloff five and Casciaro one during the stretch.

But slowly, St. Patrick came back. Bartzis made it 39-35 with a field goal at 2:20. St. Viator's last point was Wiloff's free throw at 1:17.

Bartzis' two charity shots at 0:55 and Michael Smith's field goal at 0:32 were the game's last points.

Both teams committed numerous turnovers during the last four minutes.

St. Patrick, dropping to 8-4 in the ESCC, scored just five second half field goals while the Lions were making six.

River Trails leads league

Already two matches ahead of the "B" Division pack in the eight-club Men's Suburban Indoor Doubles League, River Trails Tennis Center, Mount Prospect, this week opened a three-match lead over erstwhile co-leader Elk Grove in "A" play.

With Laddie Birge unavailable, Rick Armbrust, the other half of River Trails' top-ranked duo, paired with Lothar Peistrup to pace a 3 to 0 "A" win at The Right Club. Meanwhile Berkley Racquet Club of north Arlington Heights, aided by two forfeit victories, slapped a 3 to 0 loss on Elk Grove.

River Trails' 5-foot 8-inch pair of Rick Elsworth, former national 18-and-under hardcourt champion from California, and Roger Gutner, former Dartmouth College No. 1 from White Plains, N.Y., were impressive at No. 2 "A," winning in less than 50 minutes.

Bob von Boeckmann, twice state high school doubles champion at Arlington, and Roman Spychalski won for River Trails at No. 3, though pressed to three sets.

In other "A" action, Valley Hills (Elgin) defeated Libertyville, 3 to 0, and Arlington defeated Woodfield, 2 to 1. In "B" competition River Trails blanked The Right Club, 3 to 0; Elk Grove clipped Berkley, 3 to 0; Libertyville edged Valley Hills, 2 to 1 and Arlington whipped Woodfield, 3 to 0.

Hersey hosts Mid-Suburban gym finals

Christensen is a story in himself. He holds some of the top marks on free ex, high bar, P-Bars and all-around.

Tim Connelly figures to shoot it out with Prospect's Dave Scheible for the side horse championship and Tom Balla has beaten Christensen on high bar this year.

"It hurts us just having three in each event," Gaines noted, "but we have the potential to score between 145 and 146."

Prospect matched Elk Grove's potential and then some when they topped 148 in a recent dual meet. They have been inconsistent much of the year, though, and their 141.63 to 139.98 loss to Rolling Meadows Thursday was, according to head coach Pat Kivland, "our worst meet of the year."

All-arounder Doug Zahour has been bothered by an arm injury this year but is a threat to hit in the eights on any event.

Kivland is particularly high on Scheible. He shares the league's best side horse score with Elk Grove's Connelly and, says Kivland. "I think those two will fight it out for the state championship this year."

Still rings specialist Glenn Wilke and P-Bars ace Jim Tangney are among the best in the league.

Rolling Meadows' Mustangs will kill you with gobs of 7.00s and consistent 8.00s from high bar man Keith Liszewski and still rings specialist Dave Bycroft.

Liszewski owns the top high bar score in the league this year with 8.85 and Bycroft's 8.65 has been beaten by only one other gymnast.

Trampolinist Glenn Johnson is also a horse, holding the third best score in the league this year.

"We still didn't look sharp tonight," said Meadows coach Vic Avigliano following his meet with Prospect. "But we'll be in there. We're getting more consistent."

A pair of North Division schools, Wheeling and Buffalo Grove, round out the teams with shots at the championship.

But neither Dave Watters of Wheeling nor Dennis Mazur of Buffalo Grove entertains thoughts of copping the big prize.

"We're the sixth ranked team going to the meet," Watters said. "I'm just pleased that we could hit 130. Some of my guys hit the best routines of the year and, as young as we are, I'm looking to the future."

The future may be Saturday night for still rings specialist Dale Brungraber. His 8.6 score is the third best in the conference this year and he has the talent to win that event.

"I'm hoping to score 135," said Buffalo Grove's Dennis Mazur. "I also think Dewey Deal could take third in the all-around."

Top individuals from team's not qualified include Doug Smidl of Fremd, Tom Staley of Arlington (whose 8.85 on rings is the league's best this year), and Jeff Worst of Conant.

Wheeling nets girls cage trophy

The Wheeling Wildcats rallied in the second half to capture the Hersey Basketball Invitational Tournament Friday night, whipping Libertyville 59-47.

Coach Donna Dubbeld's Wildcats trailed 29-20 heading into the third quarter. In that period they outscored Libertyville 22-7 en route to their seventh win without a loss.

Sophomore Sandy Rainey, who only played about half the game because of a sore leg, poured in 22 points to pace the 'Cats. LeAnn Paulsen had 16.

Hersey won the third-place game in the eight-team tourney, 43-33 over Waukegan. Conant took the consolation title by topping Downers Grove South, 43-28.

Big bass

Lunkers average 3 pounds in these waters

There's no question that the largemouth bass commands the most attention of the nation's anglers.

The many clubs that have sprouted during the past three years, the professional circuits that offer six-figure prize payoffs and the evolution of products that cater specifically to this species — lures, tackle and boats — testify to the popularity of this freshwater target.

Illinoisans are no different.

Anglers who have enjoyed the thrill of setting a barb into the jaws of a three-pound package of bass dynamite appreciate the rewards of fishing for the bucketmouth.

For those who haven't, the spring-fever weather this week should be enough to get that drag finger itchy.

The Illinois Department of Conservation has just compiled its Fishing Prospects catalog which includes six lakes in the state that are expected to produce largemouth bass AVERAGING three pounds!

These sportfishing predictions were furnished by field fishery biologists and based on pre-season surveys such as electro-fishing, seining and gill netting as well as their experience and familiarity with local waters and observations of last summer's angler catches.

1. SPRING LAKE — Located in Tazell County, three miles northwest of Manito. This 1,285-acre lake is anticipated to provide lunker bigmouths averaging four pounds, but because of its size, requires good fishing techniques. Electronic fishing aids. . .depth sounders, fish finders, temperature gauges. . .might prove valuable.

Fishing the numerous brush piles and stickups with large spinner baits and plastic worms during April, May and June will provide the most action.

2. CARLINVILLE CITY LAKE — located in Macoupin County, two miles south of Carlinville. This 168-acre lake should be blooming with bass carrying an average weight of three pounds in the fall.

Outdoors
Jim Cook
Outdoor Editor
394-2300

With the exception of June earning a prime-time fishing billing, biologists suggest pounding the east end and south shoreline with Bomber baits manufactured by the Bomber Bait Co. in September and October.

3. ST. ELMO NEW CITY LAKE — located in Fayette County, one mile north of St. Elmo. Considered a pond by some because of its relatively small 68-acre stature, a prominent population of weed beds make this lake a base haven with an average weight of three-pounders forecasted.

Artificial baits should be effective during April, May, June and September when pitched along the weeds and stickups.

4. RED HILLS STATE LAKE — located in Lawrence County, two miles northeast of Sumner. Despite its diminutive proportions of 40 acres, this puddle boasts the average bucketmouth to weigh in at three pounds.

The bass will turn on to spinnerbaits when fished in the shallows during April and May and off deep points in June and July.

5. BALDWIN LAKE — located in Randolph County, two miles northwest of Baldwin. If you're lookking for outdoor atmosphere, Baldwin may be disappointing since it is the cooling pond for the Illinois Power Company of Decatur, devoid of trees and dominated by the 20-story plant.

Rectangular in shape, Baldwin not only has big bass (8 pounds, 10 ounces), but its continual warm-water environment is a breeding ground for forage fish, the main diet of lunker largemouth.

The weed beds at the south end of the 2018-acre lake are the most productive when attacked with topwater lures and spinner baits, virtually year-round.

6. REND LAKE — located in Franklin and Jefferson counties, two miles east of Sesser. The grand-daddy of the "big bass" lakes, this 18,900-acre reservoir is expected to give up averages of three-pound largemouth from April through October with the exception of the hot-water months of July and August.

Offerings of plastic worms and spinner baits in the brush-pile areas and in rip-rap should turn the most bass.

Of course, any number of lakes throughout the state and including some in northern counties are home for lunker largemouth bass.

It's just a matter of finding, catching and escorting them with a stringer to appreciate one of the biggest thrills available to an outdoor enthusiast.

Matching proper scopes to rifles avoids injury

by VIC WATIA

The various rifle scopes on the market can be confusing for a novice who wants to switch over to using a scope, and there are a couple of precautions to be taken.

First, the beginner should never confuse .22 rifle scopes with those designed for rifles of higher power. The scopes for .22 caliber guns are not to be used on any other caliber, and are dangerous if mounted on a powerful rifle.

A .22 rifle has no kick, and therefore scopes can be built cheaper and still do an excellent job. If mounted on a high caliber rifle, the lenses on the .22 scope may shatter.

However, there is even more of a danger with such a mounting. Because there is no kick to a .22, the distance required to see through the scope is shorter.

When a shooter looks through a .22 caliber scope, his eye is usually about two inches from the end of the scope when the target is visible.

If a shooter were to mount the .22 scope on a high power rifle the kick from the rifle could drive the scope into the eye causing permanent injury.

High power rifle scopes are designed to withstand pressures of heavy loads, and there is no danger of the lens shattering. Also, the distance between the eye and scope required to bring the picture into focus usually varies from about three to five inches, compared with about two inches with a .22 scope.

However, the novice still must take some precautions when he begins shooting a scope. A personal experience taught me a lesson I'll never forget.

About 10 years ago I purchased my first scope, a 1.5-to-4 variable. I was going to mount the scope on my .300 savage for deer hunting.

When I explained I would be hunting mostly tight cover, such as Michigan cedar swamps, but also wanted a scope for longer distances, a gun dealer recommended the small variable.

He also suggested a side-kick mount — popular at the time — which would let me flip the scope to one side out of the way so I could use open sights.

Eager to get the rifle ready for deer season, I sought no advice in mounting the scope. The result was that I brought it too far back in the rings of the mount.

What I didn't take into consideration was that once I flipped the scope out of the way to use the open sights, I had a tendency to move my head forward on the stock of the rifle to use the open sights.

The result was that when I fired using the scope, all was fine. But the first time I flipped the scope to one side, and moved my head slightly forward, I was slapped above the left eye by the scope when I fired the gun.

My eyebrow was cut when the scope slapped against it during the recoil of the rifle and, as a result, I have a small scar there as a constant reminder of my foolishness.

But it taught me a valuable lesson, and now I always seek the help of a gunsmith if there's any doubt about what I'm doing, no matter how foolish the questions may seem.

United Press International

THE DIFFERENCE between mounting a .22 caliber scope and a highpower model could be a black eye. Precautions must be taken.

Arlington Rifle Club bows in tournament

The Arlington High School rifle team of coach Bob Thompson lost a close match to Downers Grove in the Class B. Division of the 2nd annual National Rifle Assn. Small-Bore Three-position International Tournament in Elgin.

Arlington team members Dale Gahart, Mike Bender, Rodney Nation and Jim Zienz compiled 1,026 points, but were shaded by Downers' 1,080.

In Class A competition, the U.S. Army Military Marksmen Training Unit, comprised of several Olympic and Pan-Am medal winners, captured honors with 1,158 points. In women's shooting, Gail Gahart of Arlington finished second.

The next stop for the Arlington team will probably be the 1976 Illinois State Gallery Rifle Championships March 12-14 at Elgin.

Discount boat show tickets on sale

Boating enthusiasts can begin saving for the summer season ahead by purchasing discount tickets to the 7th annual Midwest Boat Show that sails into Arlington Park March 5-14.

The show promises to be the largest ever, according to president Edward Hansen, who points out that confirmed reservations for display space are running well ahead of previous shows.

"All the dealers have that feeling that this will be the year that sales spurt," he said. "Fiscal 1976 is going to be even better than '75."

Last year America's recreational and sporting enthusiasts spent more than $5 million every day on boats, motors, accessories, marine sporting equipment and resort areas where marine activities are centered.

Tickets, normally $3 at the door, are on sale in advance at numerous outlets for $2.

Among the stores offering the discount tickets are the U.S. Navy Recruiting Station in Palatine, Metal Craft Sales in Prospect Heights, Boat Supermarket in Rolling Meadows, Ahlstrand Marine in Wheeling, Nelson Marine, Inc. in Des Plaines, Kirby of McHenry County in Crystal Lake and both Midwest Trail-Cruise Sailboats and Tri City Upholstery of Barrington.

Fish hatchery location changed

The Illinois Department of Conservation will accept the recommendations of a Seattle, Wa. environmental consulting firm, Kramer, Chin and Mayo, to change the site of a proposed fish hatchery according to state Conservation Director Tony Dean.

The original site, northeast of Mackinaw in Tazewell County on Department owned land was abandoned due to poor water quality. The newly recommended site is located in the Sand Ridge State Forest, 12 miles northeast of Havanna on the Tazewell-Mason County line.

"A problem developed at the Mackinaw site when detailed chemical analysis revealed unusually high levels of ammonia in water from the test wells. Fish have a very low tolerance for ammonia. Consequently, we had two choices: discover an economical way to remove ammonia from large amounts of water or move the site. After furthe analysis, our consultants have recommended the most economical alternative — to move the site," Dean said.

Dean explained that the new 160 acre site is located on Department lands, has a large adequate water supply, and is located in the center of the state, an important factor in the transportation of live fish once the hatchery is operating.

A spokesman for Kramer, Chin and Mayo, said the high ammonia levels at the Mackinaw site were caused by an unusual glacial deposit of decaying organic matter, trapped underground near the test wells.

The new combined cold water-warm water hatchery, when completed in 1980, will be one of the most advanced in the world. It will replace two outdated facilities - Carbondale and Woodstock. It is expected to produce some 26 million fish of 15 different species annually.

Trial key to future of Ananda Marga

Religion today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

It's been more than 1,000 days since P. R. Sarkar, spiritual head of the Ananda Marga movement in India, began his prison-home fast.

Sarkar, who is known to adherents of the movement as Shrii Shrii Anadamurti, has been in jail since December 1971, on charges of being involved in the murder of some former followers of the movement.

He began his fast to protest his innocence, the prison facilities and the lack of the Indian government's move toward a speedy trial.

The trial has now begun and many people believe it will be a major test for the new India, the restrictive government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and one that could spell the future of the activist religion movement of Ananda Marga in India.

ANANDA MARGA, which means "Path of Bliss," was started in 1955 by Sarkar, and in many respects could have been just another of the numerous versions of Tantric Yoga, the meditation system which has spread throughout the world.

But Sarkar's version had a significant difference — instead of being just an effort at achieving internal peace through spiritual practice. The movement also seeks to improve, liberate and purify society through various forms of social action.

For the first 10 to 12 years of the movement's activities in India, there was little conflict between adherents and the Indian government, the latter a frequent target of the social teachings of the movement.

IN 1967, HOWEVER, with the movement estimated to number some two million, a mob attacked Ananda Marga headquarters in West Bengal, where the group was carrying out relief work, and five Ananda Marga workers were killed.

According to William T. Wells, a British lawyer and former member of Parliament who has served as an independent investigator for the movement, some of the friction in West Bngal could be attributed to hostility between the Margis and Communists, who were part of the state government at the time.

The government moved decisively against the movement in 1971, charging Sarkar ordered the killings of seven defectors. His followers, of course, stoutly defend his innocence.

But the followers believe, particularly since Mrs. Gandhi's crackdown last summer, that Sarkar will not be able to get a fair trial. Wells has gone back to India to observe the trial, and a delegation from the International Commission of Jurists plans to arrive in the country sometime in mid-February on a similar mission.

When the jurists and Wells make their reports, it may give a glimmer of light on the situation in India and suggest something of the future for the Ananda Marga movement not only in India but the United States as well.

The way we see it

Let's clean up utility's service

The Illinois Commerce Commission recently told us what we've suspected all along — the Citizens Utilities Co. is providing inadequate service to its customers.

After a 14-month investigation, the commerce commission said the 20,000 customers in Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights served by the utility company indeed are being poorly served. The commission said billing procedures are inadequate and water quality is low. To compound the situation, the utility company also does not respond to customer complaints, the investigation revealed.

Put yourself in the unenviable position of receiving water and sewer service from Citizens Utilities.

You move to the area, find rust and impurities in your water as well as a bad taste and smell. You get the bills at the wrong time and then can't get a response from the people who run the water system.

Then to add the finishing touches, Citizens Utility asks for a 70 per cent rate increase. You yell as loudly as you can at anyone who will listen.

The residents have done all they can, and now it's up to the ICC, the new City of Prospect Heights and the Village of Mount Prospect to step in and help, if the utility company continues its blatant disregard for the people it serves.

The ICC has pointed out specific solutions to the water and sewer problems. What we expect now is stringent followup by the commerce commission, for we believe only with constant supervision will the utility move in a positive direction.

Further, for months the Village of Mount Prospect has attempted to negotiate a sale price for the utility.

Utility company officials have refused to sell but are willing to discuss the matter because of the village's condemnation powers. The Village of Mount Prospect has the final alternative: condemn the utility company if necessary. Such a move is drastic, but this outrageous service cannot be allowed to continue indefinitely. The new City of Prospect Heights has the same alternative and should issue condemnation orders if the situation does not improve.

Ultimately, the decision rests with the utility company. For if improvements are not made, there won't be a utility company to worry about anymore.

Poor water quality? Unresponsive service? Raise their water and sewer rates!!

Schlickman rips Howlett

Secretary of State Michael Howlett has broken a promise to the Northwest suburbs of Cook County.

For three years Howlett has been promising to us an all-purpose motor vehicle facility at which we could apply for driver's licenses, take the required exams, apply for probationary or restricted licenses, buy license plates, and in general, conduct whatever business necessary concerning motor vehicles. Presently, we've got nowhere to go but into the City of Chicago or adjoining counties.

Four years ago the need of our area, approximately the size of the city of Milwaukee, was recognized by former Governor Richard B. Ogilvie and Howlett's predecessor. A bill I introduced was passed and approved by which the Secretary of State was given the authority to construct a modern, all-purpose, federally approved facility in the Northwest suburbs for service to auto owners and drivers.

The action of the legislature and Governor Ogilvie was not ill-conceived. It resulted from an engineering study for the Secretary of State's office in which was stated: "All applicable research has pointed towards both the immediate and future need for a motor vehicle service facility in the Northwest Chicago suburbs, serving the people of three and possibly four counties. This center would not only function as an off-street testing station but would also serve as a distribution point for license plates and as a site for driver control hearings."

Eugene Schlickman

Michael J. Howlett

Repeatedly, Howlett asked the legislature for a re-appropriation of the funds, but, in the meantime, he procrastinated. (Despite the efforts of a citizen's committee composed of three distinguished Northwest suburbanites to assist him in site selection, he hired a political crony at state expense to "review" the situation, but to no avail.) Now he's announced, after many, many promises, that he's not going to give a loaf to the suburbs, but, instead, a mere crumb in the form of a leased facility that will be no better than the facilities out of county, except for the driving time to get to them.

Specifically, he's selected leased space at one of the busiest intersections in the Northwest suburbs, which will be limited to the giving of written drivers' examinations. It won't be full service and, consequently, road tests of unlicensed drivers will be given on streets adjoining Woodfield Shopping Center, no purchase of license plates will be available and applicants for restricted driving permits will have to continue going into Chicago.

The direct beneficiaries of Howlett's ill-considered decision include a desperate landlord, his commercial tenants who will enjoy the increased patronage, the row of new car dealers that are in the immediate vicinity and currency exchanges that won't lose business by the fee they charge for servicing applications.

Howlett is doing this under the guise of economy. The headlines read "Howlett to rebate unspent appropriations!" He implies that this is relief to the taxpayer when, in fact, the money is from the motor fuel tax fund and is a budgeted item. His action means more road funds to the City of Chicago and downstate. Once again the suburbs are getting cheated.

I suggest that every interested citizen write or call Howlett and express objection to his sell out of the Northwest suburbs of Cook County.

Should the candidates quit office?

by STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., has an idea that could scare the ambition out of many of his colleagues. He doesn't think a member of Congress has any business running for president.

And if Goldwater has his way, there's going to be some deep soul-searching in the future.

What Goldwater wants to do — either through legislation or a constitutional amendment — is to force a member of Congress to resign if he chooses to seek one of the presidential nominations.

Goldwater's complaint is that a presidential candidate is too busy campaigning to do any justice to his congressional duties and is, more or less, limited to collecting his $44,625 for the year.

Goldwater candidly admits he talks from experience, noting that he posted a horrendous attendance record in 1964 when he sought and won the Republican nomination.

And he claims that John F. Kennedy was just as bad in 1960. The only difference Goldwater can find is that Kennedy won and he didn't.'

Four senators and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona now are out campaigning for the presidency, assured of a warm welcome home on Capitol Hill should the quest fail..

That might not have been the case if the Goldwater proposal was law.

• Would Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington have been as quick to foresake 26 years seniority and chairmanship of the Senate Interior Committee to make the race?

• Would Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana have given up his Senate seat less than two years after winning a tough reelection for the uncertainties of national politics?

• Can anyone imagine that Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd would have given up his post and a good shot at becoming the top Democrat in the Senate just so he could lead West Virginia's delegation to the national convention?

Maybe so, but the chances are that the Goldwater rule would have cut the field of congressmen-candidates.

At the same time, Goldwater's proposal has some glaring omissions:

• Why should an incumbent president be allowed a presidential campaign and stay in the White House if a senator has to give up his seat?

• Why should Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp remain as state chief executives if a House member has to resign?

• Would such a law scare off qualified candidates? Qualified or not, the Democrats have chosen a candidate holding a federal office in every national election since 1960 — one president, one vice president, and two senators.

The chances of Goldwater's proposal proceeding very far are remote.

Members of Congress are more prone to find ways to stay in office than to find avenues out. The best example was Lyndon B. Johnson who had the Texas legislature rewrite the law so he could stay in the Senate if the 1960 Kennedy-Johnson ticket lost.

New explanation due

You can't fault Mike Howlett for making at least a half-step towards openness and honesty.

Last week, after the disclosures that he had received $15,000 a year as a consultant for Sun Steel Co., the Democratic candidate for governor called a press conference to explain his position and announce his resignation from the firm.

In talking about the Sun Steel position, Howlett refused to offer specific details on what he did for the company.

The explanation he did provide was inadequate, but at least he quit the $15,000-per-year job.

Howlett followed that action by inadvertently dropping another bombshell. He said he paid personal income taxes on $100,000 in campaign contributions in 1974. The Internal Revenue Service does not require tax payments unless the money was used for personal reasons. Howlett contends he used the money for campaign purposes.

Either he was badly advised or he is not being candid about the use of the funds. He now owes it to the voters of Illinois and to those who contributed to his 1972 campaign to provide a complete explanation of his 1972 campaign fund use.

Paramedics 'the greatest'

On Jan. 9, I was suffering an apparent serious heart attack. I could not believe it because I am not overweight, my age being 41, etc., but I knew something terrible was happening to me.

My two children who were with me at the time called our paramedics, who arrived within minutes, had me "hooked up," etc., and in contact with Northwest Community Hospital.

I had previously seen demonstrations by our paramedics and thought "this would never happen to me, not for many years yet." Once they arrived I was totally relieved of my fears and anxieties. I knew the "best" were there to help and the rest was up to God.

I cannot compliment them enough on their understanding, kindness, etc. They even let my daughter ride along since she was so anxious.

The only way I can think of thanking them is by writing publicly and letting more people become aware of these great men.

I have a long recuperation period now, but I doubt if I would be here now if it weren't for them. They're "the greatest."

Dist. 54 missed

I recently found out that because of a company transfer, my husband is going to have to move our family to Miami, Fla. I certainly won't miss the climate here, but I will miss Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 and all the benefits it has provided for my children over the last five years.

I have a physically handicapped child in grade school and a son in junior high.

Because of the exceptional efforts of the special education department of Dist. 54, my handicapped child is able to receive a normal education and at the same time receive excellent physical and occupational therapy at Einstein School in Hanover Park. It is a wonderful school staffed by dedicated people.

My son attends Helen Keller Jr. High and I am really impressed with the high caliber education that is going on there.

I have researched school districts across the country anticipating the possibility that we might have to relocate. I am very disappointed in the quality of education that is commonplace in other areas of the United States.

A referendum taking place today. It asks for extended funds to continue the exceptional education process currently going on in Dist. 54. If you value your children, you will vote for this referendum.

It is with regret that I leave Dist. 54.

AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL 1776-1976

Dateline 1776

(by United Press International)

BOSTON, Feb. 14 — Six British companies of light infantry and six grenadier contingents made a night foray to Dorchester Heights and set fire to a number of houses and captured six Americans without a shot being fired. Each participant received a pair of shoes and stockings as a reward.

Valentines have changed but not their message

Collecting
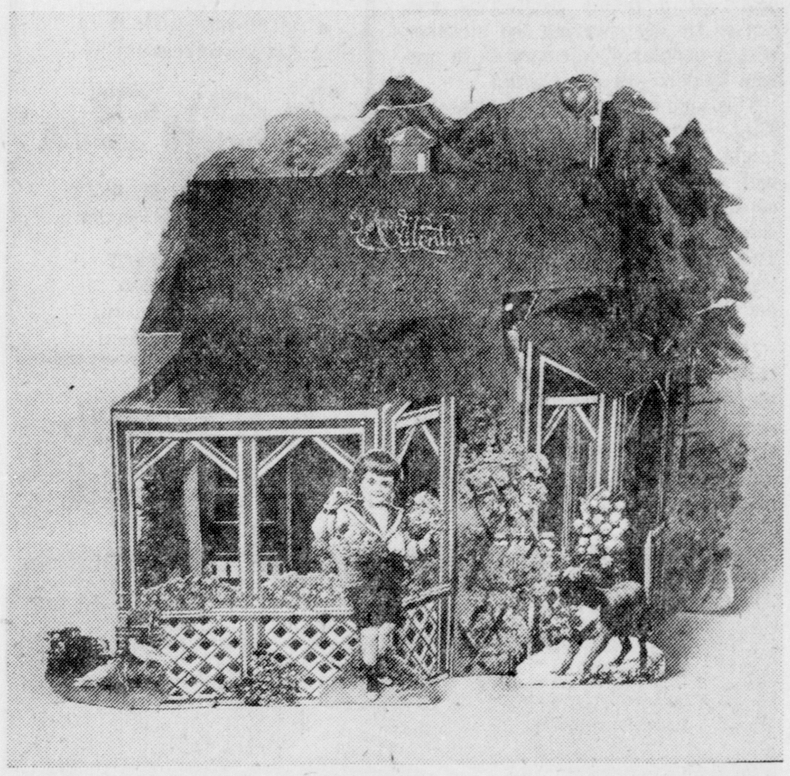
with Grace Carolyn



Do you remember receiving a comic Valentine in grammar school which sent the whole class into convulsions and you into an agony of embarrassment? I do — and I know who sent it, too? In our small town school there weren't many secrets, and besides, the givers of such cards usually enjoyed their trick so much they couldn't help telling.

We girls always decorated a pasteboard box with hearts and ribbons, paper doilies and drawings, then tried to be the first one at school to deposit our Valentines before anyone could peek.

The Valentines I remember were not the elaborate fringed, lacy varieties of an early time, but some were quite fancy. Often they contained a fold-out section of red tissue paper honeycomb which formed a heart or cupid, and we knew someone with a rich father had bought that one. Most were the penny variety lithographed card, brightly colored but without those expensive extras.

THE SENDING of Valentines is at least as old as the 1400s when the Duke of Orleans sent one to his wife while he was a prisoner in the Tower of London. This one is in the collection of the British Museum and it is handmade and written, of course.

Before commercially printed Valentines evolved, they were designed painstakingly by hand, often by nuns and monks, and some are fine examples of art work. Lace paper may have been punched by pins or by hand knives, and elaborate script writing and "illuminations" were used.

Until printed verse took over the handwritten greetings, one could receive help in composing amorous rhymes from a collection of verses printed in France in 1669. This was called a "Valentine Writer" and one could use the verse or adapt it to the individual recipient.

What is called by collectors the "Golden Age of Valentines" is the period covered roughly from 1840-1860. This is when some of the most elaborate lithography and art work was done, notably by Kate Greenaway, England's most famous woman artist. Her Valentines are rather like first editions of books in today's collections. She and Walter Crane colloborated on a book called "Quiver of Love," published by Marcus Ward in the early 1880s, and by this time another lithographer, Louis Prang of Boston, about 1874-1895, did many excellent Valentines. He is better known, however for his Christmas cards. You will still see the Prang name on watercolors and other art supplies.

THE MECHANICAL Valentine from Germany was the most popular in the late Victorian years, which were characterized by an abundance of show and extravagance. Many of these were stand-up cards that opened into three-dimensional scenes, and they used the honeycomb paper for the first time.

The comics I mentioned earlier are not new. The first comic Valentine was printed in 1809, and far from being just funny, the humor got out of hand and became downright obscene and insulting. Some European countries even banned the comics. "Penny Dreadfuls' were designed by an American, Charles Howard, and were commissioned by McLoughlin Brothers of New York. They sold for a penny, were indeed dreadful, and were advertised by one company as suitable for "fusty old bachelors and sour old maids."

American and English Valentines had cornered the market until a sudden flood of cheap German-made cards appeared, about 1900, forcing many of the other publishers to stop manufacture, but World War I shut off the imports, and shortly after that war we might say the era of modern cards began.

THESE LATER ones are the Valentines I remember, and wish I had saved. Valentine's Day always meant a party at school, with refreshments and entertainment, and someone always told the history of St. Valentine, the Christian martyr who was beheaded on Feb. 14, or the more popular and romantic story of a St. Valentine, who while awaiting execution, fell in love with the blind daughter of his jailer, restored her sight, and left her a farewell message signed "Your Valentine." Legend abounds in the Valentine stories, and many myths and mysteries surround the origin of the day.

Shops do a brisk business in Valentines, and, of course, collectors prefer the older varieties and try to find those which have been well preserved. These may still be found at flea markets for a couple of dollars, but an advanced collector would be willing to pay much more for a real prize.

I wish I had a "Penny Dreadful" to send to my grammar school nemesis, who is now director of a large hospital nearby. But that's not the spirit of St. Valentine's Day, and I hope you have a "loverly" one.

Romantic novels

Women still read 'em

by ELLIE GROSSMAN

Picture this. A best-selling literary personality like, say, Gore Vidal, is being interviewed on a television talk show.

Enter another best-selling author, Roberta Leigh, a 42-year-old Englishwoman whose "romances" sell a guaranteed one million copies each, worldwide.

Last year alone she wrote 23. Only 12 were published, but she still enjoyed a total sale of roughly 12 million.

She's been touring North America to publicize her latest book, "Temporary Wife," published by Harlequin Enterprises Limited, a Toronto publishing house that boasts a stable of 140 writers specializing in the kind of fluffy fiction women's magazines tend to buoy their pages with.

The discussion turns to just what is "literature," and in his best surgical manner, Vidal verbally slices Leigh into salad size chunks and sweeps her off the counter.

AFTER ALL, AS far as the critics and the publishing industry itself are concerned, Miss Leigh and her colleagues are virtually invisible. Her paperback books such as "Moonlight and Magic," "Beloved Ballerina," and "Love and Lucy Granger," which sell for a mere 95 cents, don't make best-seller lists despite their popularity. They aren't even reviewed.

And how can anyone take her characters seriously? In "Temporary Wife," for example, Luke Adams, a young, rivetingly handsome ex-Cambridge don turned business magnate, marries spunky, pretty but not ravishing Emily Lamb. It's strictly business because Luke has to protect the affair he's having with ravishing but Machiavellian Gina, his boss's wife. We know, of course, that the goodhearted Emily is the perfect wife for Luke, but it takes a considerable amount of will he, won't he, before he finally realizes it, too.

No one so much as blows his nose or scratches or develops a boil on his neck. So much for realism and Roberta Leigh's romances, which she writes in a record-breaking two weeks.

Except — faced with these propositions in her room at the Pierre Hotel — the feisty, short, well-rounded authoress will have none of it.

"It'S ABSOLUTELY not true that my books have no reality in them and that they're written to formula," she says hotly, her hazel eyes flashing.

"The stories and characters are always different and many incidents are taken from real life. It is true that the couple always come together at the end because if a reader finishes my book and she's unahppy, she's going to make all those around her unhappy.

"No one condemns a man for reading an Agatha Christie mystery, but if a woman college graduate picks up a romance for entertainment, that's terrible."

"This all began as a hobby and it still is," says the author who has also produced children's TV shows and been a newspaper editor. "I love what I do. I believe my books are the joy of love, unlike the joy of sex. The critics may ignore them, but I don't bother with critics. Women know the sort of thing they want to read.

"YOU CAN SAY this, though," she says firmly. "There are some romances on the market which are disgusting: plotless, witless and clueless, and they're an insult to women to put them up for sale. But in my books, the characters are three dimensional. I always give them backgrounds, what they like for breakfast, that sort of thing, so that I know them thoroughly. And I never allow myself to write about a situation I don't understand or can't learn about."

Why do women read her books? "First of all, I have heard that men read them, too. I think as people realize we live on the brink of disaster all the time, and that control over their lives has been taken out of their hands, they return to the basic thing: love and emotion, because that's where they do have control."

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Diverticulosis eased through diet change

I am indebted to you for helping me to feel like my old self again. For the past few years I've suffered from stomach pains from diverticulosis. I've had to endure the unpleasantness of barium X-rays. Doctors advised me to puree my food, to stay away from cereals, especially bran, and the last visit to the doctor, I was advised to stay away from all fruits and vegetables (as recently as November 1974).

It was my lucky day when I read your column about diverticulosis and sent for the Health Letter. My stomach aches have miraculously disappeared. I've stopped drinking de-caffeinated coffee and cut down on sweets. I eat sprouted wheat bread and every day I have Grapenut Flakes mixed with bran buds with skim milk and banana (no sugar). Since I eat this every day I would like to know if I can harm myself in any other area?

These packaged cereals have preservatives. I would rather eat cereals that don't contain preservatives, but the ones on the store shelves don't have a large percentage of wheat and no bran — and they're sweetened besides. Will the preservatives in Grapenut Flakes and bran do any harm? Especially if I eat them every day. Can I purchase the right cereals without preservatives and where?

For years doctors treated diverticulosis with bland diets and foods lacking in bulk. The change in treatment is a complete turn around. The change followed the observations that people in the world who had cereal fiber in their diet didn't have these problems.

I am delighted to hear you have done so well. Don't worry about the preservatives in the cereals you are buying. In the amount you will be getting they will not hurt you at all. In fact some of those preservatives in animal studies have been shown to lengthen the life span.

Eating cereal and bran every day as you are doing will not cause you any harm. I trust you are getting a well-balanced diet by eating adequate amounts of protein foods and vegetables with your other meals.

For others who want more information on diverticulosis send 50 cents for The Health Letter, Number 5-6, Diverticulosis. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Would you please let my husband and me know if it is safe or healthy for our 19-year-old son to go without underwear (shorts). Winter and summer, he only wears pants. We are concerned only for his health, not what the books of proper attire say.

I can't think of a single reason why it would be harmful to him from a health point of view. After all, boxer shorts are no different than ordinary pants and provide only warmth and protect the pants, which is a hygenic question not a health question.

Some men with varicocoele, dilated veins, need support but none of the forms of men's underwear really provide much help for that problem.

The pouch-type men's brief provide some advantages from a strictly mechanical point of view. They also defeat nature's mechanism of providing proper temperature control. The constant higher level of temperature of the testicles may be a factor in some individuals with possible low fertility.

Fingerpaint easy to make and cheap

Bad weather is the time mothers of small ones rack their minds for things to keep the children occupied. Finger painting is always a fun project and I've just been sent a mix that's both simple and inexpensive. Mix one-half cup cornstarch with three-fourths cup cold water in a medium-size pan. On the side, soak one envelope of unflavored gelatin in one-fourth cup cold water. Stir two cups of hot water into the starch mixture and cook over medium heat until it comes to a boil and is smooth.

Take off the stove and stir in the softened gelatin. Then add one-half cup soap flakes or powdered detergent and stir until dissolved. A powdered dye can be used for coloring, but food coloring is best when children are involved. This recipe makes about three cups, and one teaspoon of a different color can be put into each cup. This mixture will stay well if put in a jar with a tight-fitting cover — and stored in a cool place.

Dear Dorothy: How can I get the tops off silver salt shakers when the salt has been left in a long time.—Mildred Sater

This kind of corrosion can be pretty permanent, says one of the leading silver and glass repairers. He recommended letting the shakers soak in water or vinegar for 48 hours. He said that when this method doesn't work, he sometimes tires lacquer thinner.

Dear Dorothy: I use one stick (one-half cup) of margarine in making cookies. Is a half-cup of the soft margarine equal to the same half-cup in stick margarine?—Lorna Holmes

Yes. What is confusing you is the whipped margarine that comes six sticks to the pound. This is entirely different and should not be used in baking.

Dear Dorothy: Can you tell me how I can remove white spots on the headboard of a maple bed? This was caused by my spraying the mattress with a popular disinfectant — to prevent mildew.—Beulah Folsom

This type of stain may need professional care, but a refinisher said you might try using 0000 steel wool with either naptha or benzine — both of which are dangerous products and should be used with extreme caution. Then wash with a solution of that white household soap and water, rinse and dry. Then rewax.

HAVE-A-HEART RACE

You'll have to step lively to win this Valentine race! Each player cuts out two big red paper hearts. He puts them on the starting line and puts one foot on each heart. At the "go" signal, he picks up one heart and moves it forward. He steps on it with one foot. Then he picks up the other heart and moves it forward. He steps on it with the other foot.

Players may move forward only by moving and stepping on their hearts. First player to reach the goal wins.

Ask Andy

Slim waistline wasp's note to fame

Andy sends a 20-volume set of the Merit Students Encyclopedia to Jodi Klein, of Winnipeg, Man., Canada, for her question:

COULD YOU PLEASE TELL ME SOMETHING ABOUT WASPS?

The world is literally teeming with insects, and it is estimated that there are more than 800,000 different kinds. As an aid in classification these kinds are broken down into large groups called orders. One of these orders is the Hymenoptera — the group that includes bees, ants and wasps.

There are many different kinds of wasps found throughout the world. While they differ greatly in size and habits, they do share some common characteristics. Perhaps their most outstanding feature is their stylish wasp waist. This is the slender portion of the wasp's body that connects his abdomen to his thorax. Their bodies are generally slender and, while some are shiny black or steely blue, many are brightly decorated with bands of red, yellow or orange.

Some wasps live in colonies, and they are called social wasps. These are the papermakers of the insect world and include the hornets and yellow jackets. They build their nests from a mixtue of old wood and tough plant fibers which they chew into a pulp. The colonies of the social wasps last only one season. Most wasps do not store food and in the fall the members of the nest die, except for a new crop of new young queens who have mated and will hibernate through the winter. In the following spring they will form new colonies of their own.

The solitary wasps do not live together in groups. And where the social wasps are the papermakers, the solitary wasps are the masons, diggers and pottery makers. One pottery maker many of us have seen is the steely blue mud dauber. She models a nest of soft mud that is left to dry in the sun. Each compartment of her nest encloses one egg plus a supply of food for the hungry larva that hatches from the egg.

Othe solitary wasps dig holes in the ground or, as in the case of the carpenter wasps, tunnel into the wood of old trees or posts. All the solitary wasps have one thing in common — they provide food for the offspring they seldom see. Wasps catch caterpillars, spiders, beetles and many other types of insects. Since the larval wasps most often subsist on live food, the mother wasp must take great care merely to paralyze the prey and not kill it.

If we were to judge the wasps only on the basis of their painfull stings, we might be forced to admit that they are bad-tempered pests. However, to be fair, we must examine the evidence of their general usefulness. For even while most wasps live on nectar, they destroy large numbers of harmful insects to provide food for their young.

Andy sends a 7-volume set of the Chronicles of Narnia to Todd Cerami, 11, of Piscataway, N.J., for his question:

DO BIRDS DIE OF HEART ATTACKS?

Yes, birds occasionally die of heart attacks and they are caused by intense excitement or fatigue. But for a bird, death may come in many different ways. It may be swift, or it may be a slow death by starvation. Many birds die of a fungus infection in the lungs, while others perish from freezing wather, a drying pond or a fierce headwind during migration. And a bird is prey for many animals such as snakes, foxes, weasels, skunks and even on rare occasions such fish species as northern pike and goosefish.

Perhaps the most precarious time in the life of a bird is when he is still in the nest. Weak and defenseless, he often becomes the tasty meal of birds becomes the tasty meal of birds of prey such as the egal, owl, hawk or shrike. If this isn't threatening enough, he can also be attacked by a firstborn chick in the nest. Occasionally, birds become the prey of animals who ordinarily wouldn't bother them at all. This occurs when the usual supply of food dwindles to such an extent that they are forced to search elsewhere for food.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

CRYPTOQUOTES

EGC ORP IUU HRF HFGX KWU KGJ GH KWU XGCPKRVP SCK EGC ORP'K IUU KWU XGCPKRVP.—WRFFE JUIVP

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: PROMOTE THEN, AS AN OBJECT OF PRIMARY IMPORTANCE, INSTITUTIONS FOR THE GENERAL DIFFUSION OF KNOWLEDGE. — GEORGE WASHINGTON

200 years at the same location.

Maybe folks were a little skeptical about taking stock in America 200 years ago.

We were young. At war. With no experience.

And who knew if we'd ever pay back the money?

Well, 200 years have passed. And the U.S. government has always paid in full. To the penny.

Now that's not a bad record.

In fact, you might say we're now a pretty well-established outfit to do business with.

So join the Payroll Savings Plan and save with today's Bicentennial issue of Series E Savings Bonds. It's easy. It's automatic.

And it's safe. After 200 years, you know we're here to stay.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal taxes may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

200 years at the same location.

WANT ADS WEEK FOR FEBRUARY

Stock prices dip in profit taking, sluggish trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Profit takers held the upper hand Friday as prices fell for the second consecutive day in the slowest trading in six weeks on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average, a 5.12-point loser Thursday, dropped another 8.42 points to 958.36. Despite the setbacks, the blue-chip average managed to gain 3.46 points for the week.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index surrendered 0.58 to 99.67, and the NYSE common stock index, 0.28 to 53.27. The average price of an NYSE common decreased by 18 cents.

THE MARKET'S BREADTH figures reflected profit-taking pressure and investor uncertainty. Of the 1,890 issues crossing the tape, 857 declined, 629 advanced and 404 remained unchanged.

Volume slowed to 23,870,000 shares from 28,610,000 traded Thursday. It was the slowest turnover since 21,962,490 shares were traded Jan. 5. Observers noted Thursday was a semi-holiday, and the market will be closed Monday in commemoration of Washington's birthday. Many investors simply took a five-day weekend.

Analysts said some investors conholiday, and the market will be while traders cashed in on blue-chip gains made in January. This has been a pattern for two weeks.

New York City's fiscal problems continued to bother Wall Streeters as Mayor Abraham Beame confirmed reports the city's deficit would exceed $1 billion this year, instead of the projected $724 million.

INVESTORS FAILED to respond to the Labor Dept.'s report the Wholesale Price Index remained unchanged in January and that business sales rose 1 per cent while inventories declined .2 per cent.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased two cents. Volume totaled 3,420,000 shares, compared with 3,970,000 traded Thursday.

On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, 69,871 contracts changed hands, compared with 83,131 traded Thursday. Polaroid April 40s led the actives, up ½ to 4. Control Data May 25s followed, unchanged at 2-15/16. IBM April 260s were third, unchanged at 10¼.

Licensing of track workers opposed by labor unions

The Illinois Racing Board Friday sent to committee a controversial proposal for licensing racetrack employes.

The plan was offered by the board staff and would affect some 5,000 employes at the state's 11 racetracks. It is strongly opposed by labor organizations.

Under the plan, potential employes would be fingerprinted and given background checks.

Board attorney Jewel Klein said she thinks licensing is required for all track employes under the new Illinois Horse Racing Act.

"The major issues for licensing should be conviction of a crime, revocation of a license in another state or any violations of the racing act," she said. "We would want to prohibit an employer from hiring those persons whose background is detrimental to racing."

The committee which will consider the proposal includes three Racing Board members and persons representing unions and race track associations. Hearing will be held on the issue, the board said.

Metropolitan briefs

Howlett mum on gifts

Sec. of State Michael Howlett said Friday he would provide no more details on the $100,000 in campaign contributions he listed as personal income on his 1974 income tax.

Howlett said he listed the funds on his return and paid taxes on it on the advice of his tax attorney to avoid any controversy and potentially expensive litigation following an extensive review by the Internal Revenue Service.

Asked if he were prepared to shed more light on the matter, Howlett said, "I have said it all. I've said everything I'm going to say about it." He made the same reply 15 minutes later.

Williams seeks ballot spot

W. Dakin Williams filed suit Friday in U.S. District Court in Chicago in an attempt to get his name on the March 16 Democratic gubernatorial ballot.

Williams was ruled off the ballot by the Illinois Election Board on grounds his nominating petitions were technically deficient. He appealed through the Illinois court system and lost.

Williams, a lawyer, lives in Collinsville. His suit was assigned to Judge William J. Lynch.

Allan Grant president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said Friday the United Farm Workers are practicing political blackmail in their threats to try boycotts against California fruit growers.

Cesar Chavez, president of the United Farm Workers, has called for action at the marketplace against some California growers because the California Legislature has refused to fund its Farm Labor Relations Board until changes are made in a state farm labor law.

Grant said in a statement delivered from AFBF headquarters in Park Ridge that the funding of the board was a matter for the legislature to settle, and "not be resolved in threatened volatility and violence against food markets across the nation."

'I don't know my net worth': Reagan

Ronald Reagan said Friday he will not make public his net financial worth because he doesn't know what it is.

"I've put my affairs in the hands of a blind trust so I will not have any conflicts," he said. "I cannot answer the question of net worth. I have no way of knowing."

The former California governor spent the day campaigning in his native Illinois, with stops at Kankakee, Alsip, Lincolnshire and DuPage County. He and Ford are both entered in the state's March 16 nonbinding popularity primary contest and also are competing for delegates.

Illinois briefs

Disclosures by Dixon urged

Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlinville, Friday called on state Treasurer Alan Dixon, his primary opponent for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, to further disclose his outside income during his 25 years as a state official.

Demuzio said Dixon "has some more announcing to do" regarding a recent financial statement showing Dixon's financial net worth at $411,038. Demuzio said Dixon's total state salary during the past 25 years falls $120,000 short of the $411,038 figure.

Fire budget chiefs: Haynes

State Sen. Thomas C. Hynes, D-Chicago, chairman of a Senate committee investigating the state's fiscal condition, Friday called for the firing of the state's finance and budget directors for "deliberately misleading" his committee on the state's fiscal condition.

Hynes accused Gov. Daniel Walker's administration of misleading the Senate Committee on Fiscal Accountability about the state's financial stability, and said Walker should fire Budget Director Leonar Schaeffer and Finance Director Elliot Epstein.

Elk Grove Dems on increase: poll

Democratic officials in Elk Grove Township believe their party almost has a majority in the township.

Democratic Committeeman William Rose told The Herald a poll conducted in January by the organization indicated 48.5 per cent of those questioned favor Democratic candidates.

Rose said the findings were significant because the township always has been heavily Republican.

He said high school students were stationed at four shopping centers in the township. The pollsters asked a random group of people who they preferred in the governor's race.

Rose said 48.5 per cent of those questioned said they preferred a Democratic candidate. He declined to state whether the people said Gov. Daniel Walker over Sec. of State Michael Howlett, his opponent in the March 16 primary. He noted the township organization is making no endorsements in the governor's race.

Frank wins equal TV time battle

Congressional candidate Edwin L. Frank of Hoffman Estates won an "equal time" battle with WBBM-TV.

Frank, who is running against U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, said he filed the request for equal time after Crane discussed issues relating to the 12th District during an interview on the Ronald Reagan campaign in Illinois. Crane is Reagan's Illinois campaign manager.

Frank said WBBM-TV officials said they will give him 23 minutes of equal time.

Chapman seeks grant applicants

State Rep. Eugenia Chapman is now accepting applications from area students for four state college scholarships she will award.

The applications may be obtained by writing Chapman at 16 S. Princeton Ct., Arlington Heights, Ill. 60005.

Political briefs

2-step project to end vote fraud

The Illinois Board of Elections has announced a two-step program aimed at preventing vote fraud and irregularities in the March 16 primary.

Franklin J. Lunding Jr., board chairman, will hold a series of seminars for poll watchers. He said all candidates have been contacted and urged to send representatives to the seminars.

He said the board also will use all of its personnel on election day to respond to complaints regarding voting irregularities.

Lunding said the program was a first for any state agency.

"The state board of elections feels that this is a major step to insure honest and fair elections in the state," Lunding said.

Independnts back O'Neal

St. Clair County Sheriff Dave O'Neal, a Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, has received the endorsement of the Independent Conservative Party.

The group, which is primarily composed of residents of the 12th Congressional District, has interviewed a number of candidates running in the March 16 primary.

Don Tetzlaff, ICP chairman, called O'Neal a "well-rounded, thoughtful conservative choice in this primary. He is fiscally responsible in an era of liberal lip service to this conservative concept."

O'Neal said he was grateful for the group's endorsement, adding, "such grassroots enthusiasm as displayed by the ICP is a positive element in today's political climate."

Who says you can't score a birdie in two feet of snow?

by Paul Logan

It's a heavenly season if you ski, skate, sled, snowmobile or ice fish.

But winter's a frozen hell for most Midwest golfers.

Those who love this summer game can only watch golf telecasts from sunnier climes during the winter. Such cooped up weekends can drive a golfer crazy.

"If you don't do something, you can go nutty around here," says golf pro Al Griffith. So he keeps his course, Buffalo Grove Golf Club, open year-round.

And surprisingly enough, about 50 golfers play each weekend.

"I thought they were crazy," recalls Lino Marini of his friends playing winter golf. "They proved me wrong."

Marini, who holds the Buffalo Grove 18-hole summer record of 65, became hooked after playing in the Eskimo Open — a tourney played every January.

Ignoring a wind chill factor of minus 19 below zero, 68 hardy golfers — including two women — took part in last month's 16th annual Eskimo.

Dick Papreck, who has played in every tourney, is presently enjoying his 26th season of winter golf. "It's peaceful and quiet for one thing," says this veteran swinger.

"And you can get around a lot quicker than in the summertime."

Naturally, you have to wear the right amount of clothing that will keep out the cold and yet allow enough flexibility to take a good swing. Once you are properly dressed, the weather USUALLY isn't a big problem.

Still, Papreck remembers a day when the wind was so strong on a par 5 hole that his foursome "hit our drivers five times as well as we could possibly hit them and still we were 150 yards short of the green!"

Another time they played in 2½ feet of snow, a temperature of eight below and about a 30 mph wind which made the wind chill factor about a minus 60!

January was "an exceptionally bad month," according to Andy Charnota, who has played about five years. But despite the frigid conditions, "it's better than sitting around the house and getting fat."

"It's better than sucking up beer and watching the boob tube," adds Frank VanDeputte, who is a newcomer. "People don't say anything about ice fishermen being crazy and they just go out and sit around a hole in the ice. We're moving and we're getting exercise and when summer comes, we're ready. I start right out playing 36 or 45 holes on Sunday in the spring and I'm never sore."

Only a few Chicagoland courses allow golfers the opportunity to chase their brightly colored balls through the snowdrifts. Damage to the course, no year-round employes and a lack of golfer interest are the main reasons.

"It really doesn't affect it going into winter," explains Griffith. "It's coming out when you have to be careful."

If you're planning to attempt winter golf, don't expect extra long drives because of the frozen turf. The cold affects the liveliness of the ball. And what added distance you might gain you'll probably lose on approach shots or putts. Having fun is the main thing.

Two winter tournaments are a must for the avid golfer. Along with the Eskimo which is played early in January, there is also the Chili Open the same month. The latter is usually played the weekend after the Super Bowl game.

The Chili Open is a nine-hole event played ON Crystal Lake. It gets its name from the chili that is served by the co-founder, restaurateur Doc Haznow.

A snowplow creates the course, clearing the snow from the fairways. Driving range mats are used for the teeoff areas and carpeting for the greens. Nearly all the 200 participants at the eighth annual outing used just three clubs — 3-iron, 5-iron and putter. But that's not all they use.

"Most of them come prepared with 'antifreeze' so they can take it out there," says Fred Ehrhardt of the Crystal Lake Park District, the other co-founder.

For those who might be interested in winter golf, the biggest challenge might be sneaking past nosy neighbors. It's understandable that you would feel a little silly being seen carrying your clubs to the car on a snowy day.

"I kind of sneak out when it's still dark out," says Papreck, who adds that when his neighbors see him they say "'There goes that crazy guy down the block.'"

"They couldn't believe it at first," says Marini of his friends on the block. "Now I've got two of my neighbors playing golf. They enjoy it."

The winter golf bug isn't as widespread as the flu bug. But when it infects someone, it appears to have no cure.

Instead, it's a cure in itself for the winter golfing blues.

Summer rain shelters aren't needed . . . unless they're heated!

How they make a cake that nobody doesn't like

by Karen Blecha

Oh, cheesecake! Oh, Danish! Ah, brownies! If these and 80-pound slabs of butter and 60-pound blocks of cream cheese are part of your fat fantasy, then the Kitchens of Sara Lee is the place you've been dreaming about.

About 35,000 people a year visit the kitchens, 500 Waukegan Road, Deerfield, trying to resist the temptation to stick out a finger and lick the tops off newly baked pound cakes as they roll by. Never let anyone tell you these goodies are made by a kindly old man with a rolling pin. Sara Lee doesn't even have an elf. The baker, for the most part, is a computer.

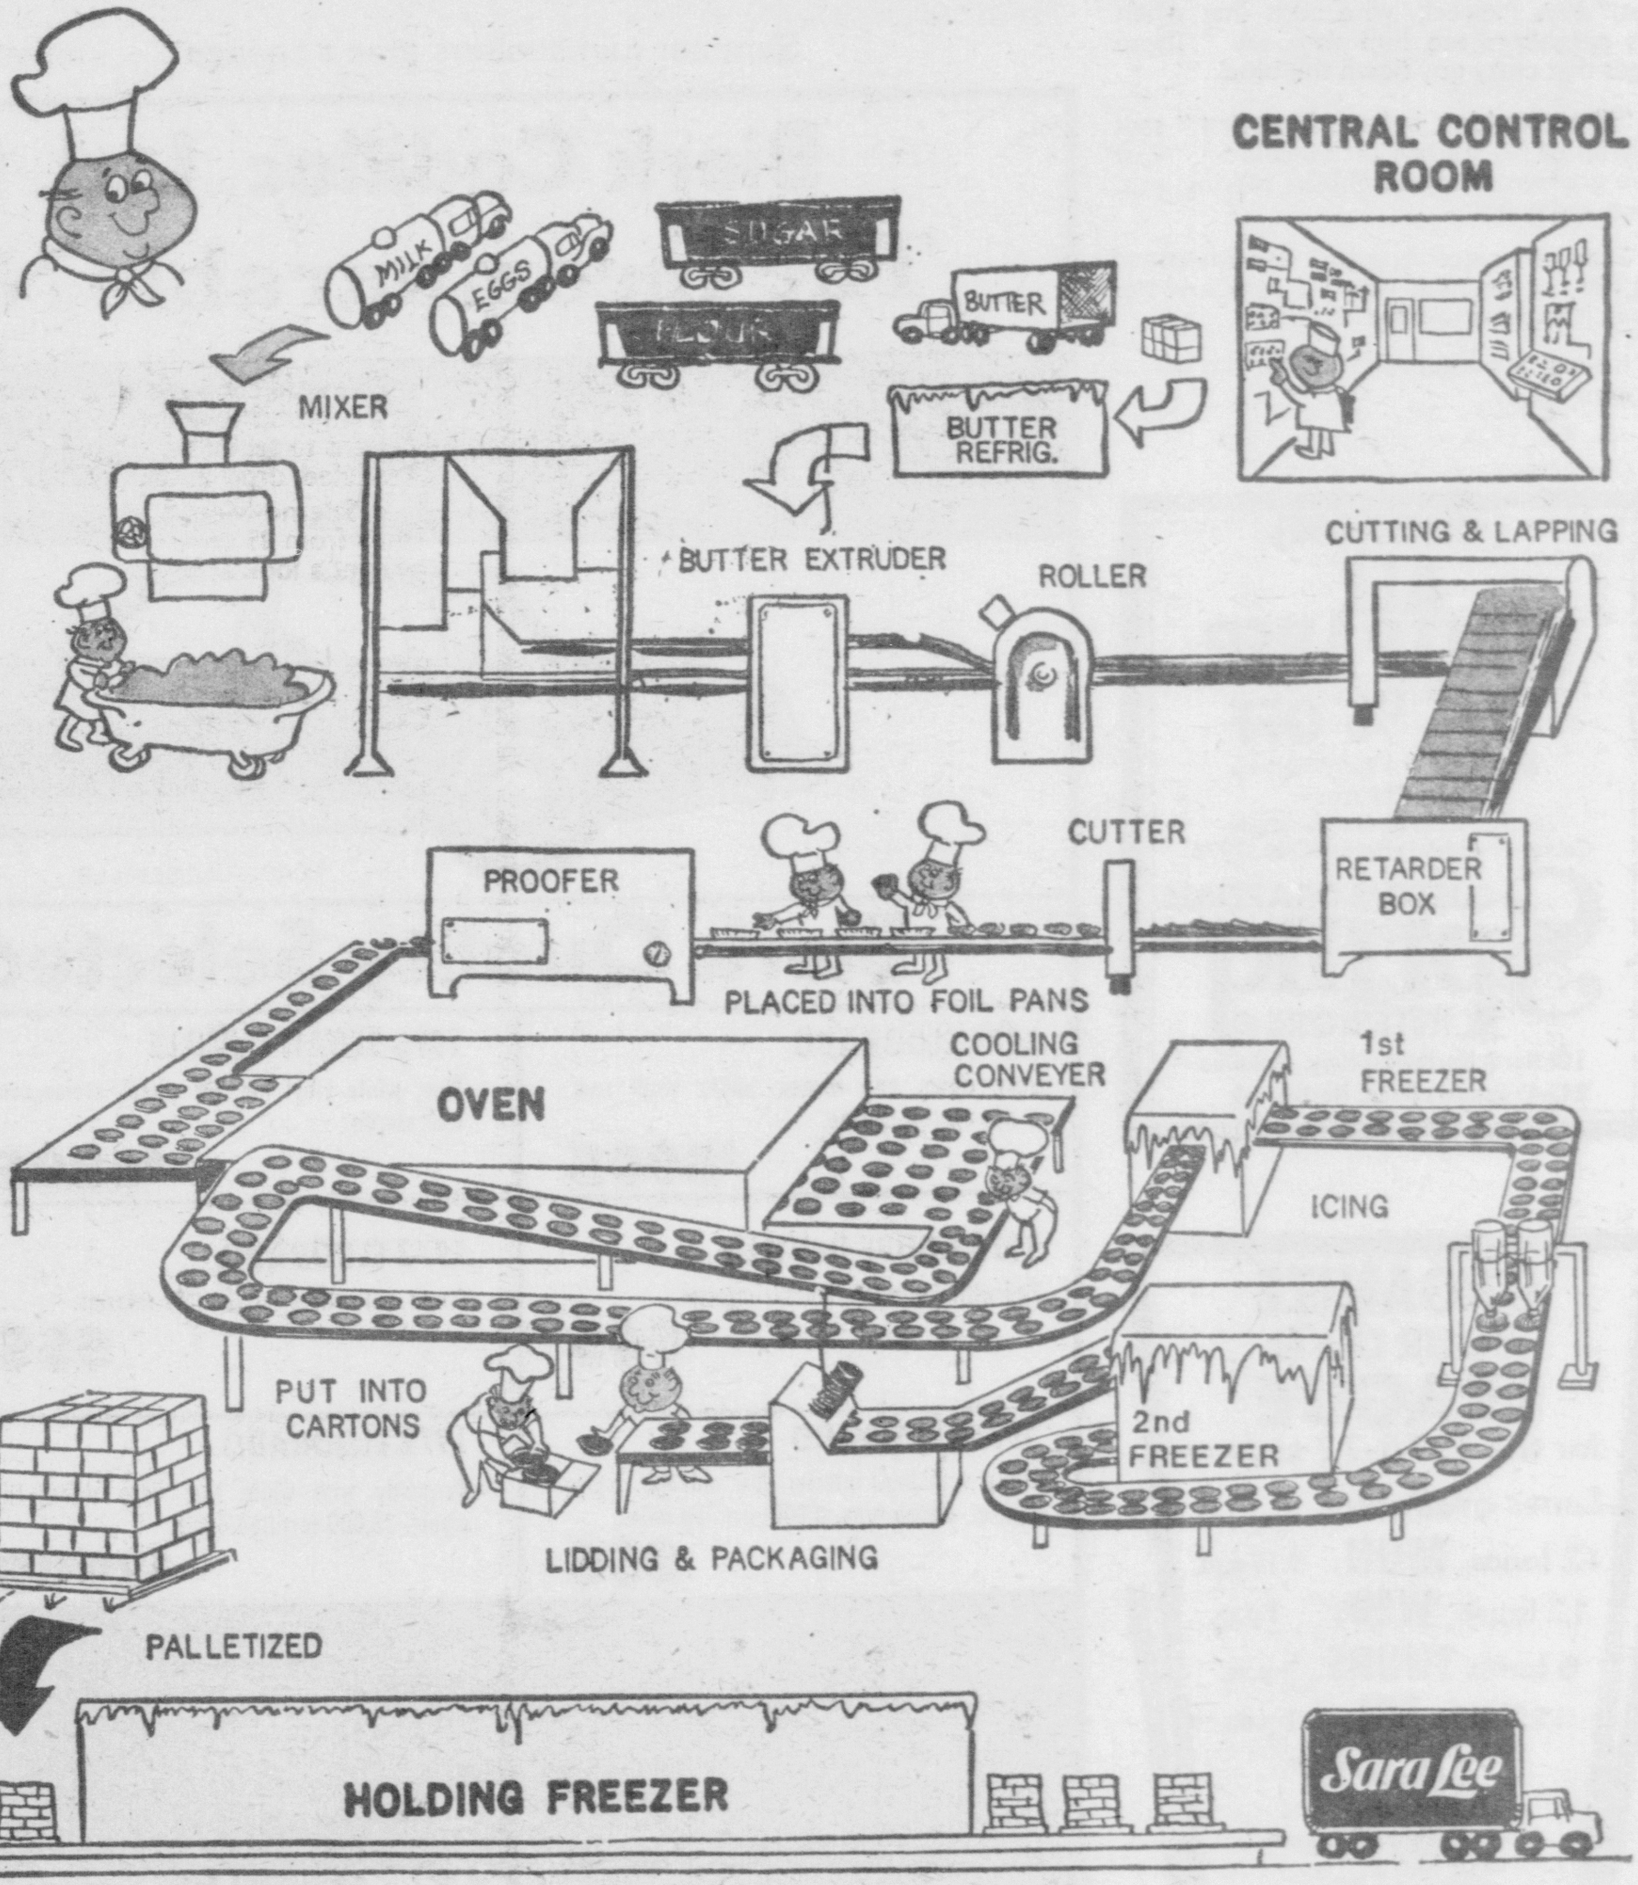
It's not that there aren't workers helping the computer. There are, as you see on the tour. Men and women in white caps and aprons make sure things go smoothly as the treats march one by one, sometimes ten by ten, down the assembly line. Ninety-five cream cheese cakes a minute. Eight-thousand pecan coffee cakes a day.

There are even some steps done by hand. But you won't see the lady who was expert at peeling bananas; the company recently decided to buy the fruit already peeled. You won't see any egg cracking either. Sara Lee's egg breaking plant in Rock Island provides 50,000 pounds of liquid eggs a day which are cracked by nine machines at the rate of 2,000 per minute.

The giant, antiseptic looking Deerfield building is as imposing as the company name. Signs direct visitors to the main lobby where a hostess greets them. The lobby is as clean as the rest of the plant, with comfortable furniture for guests who arrive early. There smells of bakery goods fill the air and leads the mind to wonder about the delectables inside.

When it's time, guests are led to a hospitality room not unlike a school cafeteria. There Lorraine Christensen, tour supervisor, welcomes the crowd. Don't be shy. She introduces everyone. After all, Sara Lee is a friendly place.

One family comes from Evanston; another from Berwyn to celebrate a son's 12th birthday. Visiting Sara Lee was his one request. A large part of the group is from Beaver Dam, Wisc., one of the many senior citizens groups that visit. One woman remarks to a friend that the tour better be good. After all, they've already been to Green Giant and Oscar Mayer. Tours don't impress this group.



"This bakery is unlike any in the world due to automation," Mrs. Christensen begins her introductory speech. "We use it to help the baker perfect his work."

She explains how all ingredients used by Sara Lee are delivered by railroad cars or tank trucks and piped to towers where they are stored until needed. The ingredients are brought to the mixers by computer. A press of a few buttons, and a batch of dough is made. The computer also is responsible for keeping the assem-everyone must wear a cap and hairnet. For those with beards there is a beardnet, similar to a paper surgical mask.

The guide lays down the rules before the plant door opens. Touching food, although you will be tempted, is an absolute no-no. The quality control experts wouldn't like it. Cameras and taking notes are also forbidden and visitors are instructed to stay within the yellow-dotted lines.

The guide apologizes that the tour starts in the middle of the Danish (as in coffee cake) process. Sara Lee was not built for tours and is one of the few companies that still allows visits by the public.

The tour begins with the making of caramel pecan rolls as a machine drops the pecans and spreads the caramel as pans roll down the line. As the tour goes further into the plant visitors can see the process at the beginning — the combining of 72 layers of dough and 36 layers of butter that eventually make the fattening 108 layers of Danish.

The guide invites visitors to ask questions but on this tour most of them are quiet. One woman asks where Sara Lee's lasagna is made and the guide tells her the line has been discontinued. She says ingredients for the dinner entrees got to be too expensive and Sara Lee couldn't afford to make the lasagna at the "high quality" the company is known for.

The "high quality" of Sara Lee products is stressed during the tour as the guide points out each product must be perfect to be sent to the retail market. If not it will be sold at Sara Lee's retail shop, near the plant, where goods are sold at about 50% of the original price. Pound cakes sell for as low as 50 cents.

Next stop is the computer room where guests can get a look at the mastermind — the Honeywell 610 — and its staff of technicians through a window. No one says much. One woman wants to know if the computer samples what it makes.

On the day of this tour, cheesecake — Sara Lee's trademark — is not being made and some of the senior citizens from Beaver Dam complain. Instead they come face to face with lines of pound cakes and watch a machine deposit just the right amount of batter into the tins and then move the cakes through the oven. The cakes are constantly moving through the 110-foot gas-fired oven and when they come out, they are done.

Last stop on the tour is packaging and the visitors seem to be getting restless. The guide smiles; she knows what they are waiting for. After the tour it's back to the hospitality room for a smorgasbord of Sara Lee delights — pieces of banana and pound cake or maybe a sample of crumb cake. The guide urges them to take seconds.

As the visitors drink their coffee and eat their seconds, they fill out comment cards to give their opinion of the tour. Everyone says they enjoyed it. Even the folks from Beaver Dam are impressed.

To tour Sara Lee, groups and individuals must make a reservation. Currently tours for groups are booked through the summer and groups cannot schedule a tour until August. Reservations for those tours will be taken after July 1. No more than 50 persons to a group.

There is still room for individuals who should call 945-2525 for a reservation. Tours are conducted Monday through Friday at 9:30, 10:15 a.m. and 1 p.m. March through November. During December, January and February, tours are given at 10:15 a.m. and 1 p.m. only. No tours are given in July. Children must be 12 years old.

bly lines rolling, detecting inferior products and stacking and storing cartons full of goodies until they are shipped.

Mrs. Christensen tells of an experimental kitchen, off limits to the tour, where 12 bakers from around the world "start with recipes just like the housewife." The audience expresses audible amazement as she describes how Sara Lee is the world's largest consumer of dairy products, the best friend of the dairy farmer.

The figures are impressive. Three million quarts of milk, 11 million pounds of butter, 28.5 million pounds of flour, 27 million pounds of sugar every year. Mrs. Christensen hints at the 80-pound slabs of butter and 60-pound slabs of cream cheese visitors will see during the tour." Just think of the calories," someone whispers. And the ladies from Beaver Dam titter.

Mrs. Christensen continues with some history of the company, founded in 1949 by a baker named Charles Lubin who created Sara Lee's original cream cheese and pound cake in the back of a small Chicago shop. And there really is a Sara Lee. Lubin named his company, now owned by Consolidated Foods Corp., after his daughter.

Talking with the tour supervisor later, you find out that Lubin still lives in the Chicago area and when he plays golf on the course across from the bakery he can stop at the seventh hole and point to his baby with pride.

"Sara Lee is the world's largest frozen cake and roll bakery," Mrs. Christensen tells her visitors. Not everything is made at the Deerfield plant. A plant in New Hampton, Iowa produces the company's fruit pies, international desserts and dinner rolls. To serve overseas markets, Sara Lee has opened plants in Canada and Australia.

The Deerfield building is the largest operation with a holding freezer bigger than a football field with room for 8.7 million cakes. Mrs. Christensen stresses that all products are catalogued by computer so that the first cake in the freezer is the first cake out. Sara Lee sells only the freshest products, she says, so no one gets the wrong impression.

When it's time for the free 40-minute tour, guides in red hats and skirts holding hairnets and caps enter the room. Ten people at a time are taken on the tour and

If you've been to Sara Lee

If you've already visited the Kitchens of Sara Lee, there are other free commercial tours in the Chicago area open to the public.

Tour supervisors welcome the public but give this warning: be sure to make a reservation. Many of the tours are booked months in advance and a visitor can not just walk in and expect to be included on a tour.

Some other tours are:

• Schwinn Bicycle Co., 1718 Kildare Ave., Chicago. 292-3479. Hour-long tours are given Monday through Friday at Schwinn's No. 1 plant, near Armitage and Pulaski. Visitors follow the bicycle production line through chrome plating, heat treating and painting of bicycles. Wheels, gears and bicycles are also assembled.

The tour also includes a look at assembly where a bare frame becomes a completed bicycle. Three to four bicycles per minute are assembled on two moving lines.

Guided tours are conducted Monday through Friday at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. except holidays, a three-week period beginning the last week of December and a two-week period in early July. Adults and children in the first grade and above are welcome. Groups can be no larger than 35.

Call for a tour as early as possible, at least one month in advance, or write Schwinn at 1856 N. Kostner Ave., Chicago 60639.

• Quaker Oats Test Kitchens, Merchandise Mart, Chicago. 222-6809. Tours, 25 minutes long, will show visitors how recipes are created, how to stretch the food dollar and how instant oatmeal and Cap'n Crunch cereal are made.

Visitors will tour six "dream kitchens" with the latest equipment. A 10-minute movie on the Quaker Oats company is also shown. A tour hostess will explain the workings of the test kitchens, which are the only operating test kitchens open to the public in Chicago.

Tours are conducted every working day 10 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 3 p.m. A group is limited to 25 persons. Groups should call or write the kitchens to schedule a tour. If a capacity group has not previously been scheduled, drop-in visitors can take the tour.

• Salerno-Megowen Biscuit Co., 7777 N. Caldwell, Niles. 774-2000. Tours from 35 to 40 minutes long, are conducted at the bakery. Visitors will get a look at how cookies are prepared and packaged plus a chance to sample the product.

Tours are given Tuesday and Wednesday at 1 p.m. and Monday through Thursday at 4:15 p.m. for groups of 10 to 30. There is a six month wait for the 4:15 p.m. tours and 1 p.m. tours are booked a year in advance. Call for a reservation.

• Illinois Bell. While the telephone company does not have regularly scheduled tours, they are planning tours for the public March 7 in honor of the company's Centennial.

Bell offices in North Chicago, Lake Forest, Skokie, Winnetka, River Grove, Schiller Park, Northbrook and Wheeling, on Dundee Road near Wolf Road, will be open to the public 1 to 4 p.m.

Tours will be conducted showing how telephone calls are made, how long distance works and how switching equipment operates. No reservations are necessary.

• Haeger Potteries, Van Buren Street south of Ill. Rtes. 68 and 72, East Dundee. 426-3441. Visitors can see how lamps, ashtrays and vases are produced from the artist's sketch to the final glaze.

Tours are conducted Monday through Friday at 9, 10, 10:45 a.m. and 1:15, 2 and 2:45 p.m. and last between 30 and 45 minutes. Group tours must be scheduled two weeks in advance and are open to groups of children 10 years or older and to adult groups with a limit of 75 persons per tour.

• Chicago Board of Trade, 141 W. Jackson, Chicago. 435-3626. The Board of Trade's tour program re-opens in May. Currently there is a temporary visitor's center in the lobby of the building with a short film and pictorial display which is open 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

When the tour program re-opens, visitors can view activity on the trading floor from the visitor's gallery 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. A hostess is available to answer questions and a film is shown on the working of the exchange. Reservations for groups of 15 or more are necessary and visitors must be at least 16 years old.

• First National Bank of Chicago, One First National Plaza, Chicago. 732-6067. Tours by reservation only Wednesdays at 1 p.m. The 40-minute tour takes visitors to various floors of the bank including international banking and women's banking and explains basic facts of banking plus the bank building. Reservations should be made one week in advance.

• Dresden Nuclear Power Station, Commonwealth Edison, Interstate 55 and U.S. Rte. 6 near Joliet. 815-942-2920. Tours are conducted Monday through Friday 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. and last 1½ hours.

Visitors will see how nuclear power is generated but must make reservations in advance. No more than 20 in a group and visitors must be at least 16 years old.

• Paddock Publications, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights. 394-2300, ext. 286. Tours, about 40 minutes, are conducted Saturdays at 10 and 11 a.m. Visitors will tour the plant including the shop where the newspapers are printed. Reservations are necessary and groups can be no larger than 20. Minimum age is 10 years old.

Freedom issue March 5

The U.S. 9-cent Freedom to Assemble stamp in the Americana series of regular postage stamps, will be issued in coil form March 5 in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

The stamp, in sheet form, was first placed on sale Nov. 24, 1975 to meet increased postal rates which became effective in December.

First day of issue ceremonies for the coil will take place during MILCOPEX 76, the annual exhibition of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society.

Stamp notes

by Bernadine M. Rechner

Collectors desiring first day cancellations should send their requests to "Freedom to Assemble Coil Stamp, Postmaster, Milwaukee, WI 53203." For this issue, collectors must either affix an additional four cents postage to their covers before sending them on for the first day cancellation or they must ask that two 9-cent coil stamps be affixed to each cover in order to satisfy the 13-cent first class postage requirement. Cancellation requests will be honored through March 25.

Harry Thornson will discuss Boy Scouts on Stamps at the next meeting of the Northwest Philatelic Club, 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Arlington Heights Public Library, 500 E. Dunton Street. Youngsters are particularly welcome at this meeting. Senior citizens are exempt from paying club dues.

For those of you who have asked about the four souvenir sheets slated for release by the U.S. Postal Service this year: these will be issued May 29, opening day of INTERPHIL 76 (the seventh International Philatelic Exhibition). Further information on cost and addresses will be announced by the Postal Service closer to the date and will be passed along in this column when it is available.

The Philatelic Journalist will issue a specially cacheted cover marking International Friendship Week, Feb. 22-28.

The green and black cover, appropriately franked and canceled Feb. 28, is available for $1.00 from "The Philatelic Journalist, P.O. Box 150-IF, Clinton Corners, NY 12514." Please enclose a self-addressed, stamped business envelope for their return.

Public invited to vote for Bicentennial slogan

Residents are invited to cast their vote for a national Bicentennial slogan which will be selected by public election.

Candidate slogans are 1. America is your past; you are her future; 2. America — the possible dream; 3. Honor the past; challenge the future; 4. Take pride in America's past, take part in America's future; 5. Stand fast, stand tall, stand American; and 6. Freedom's way — U.S.A.

To vote, print the number of the slogan chosen on a stamped postcard. Address cards to Slogans, USA, Box 1976, Washington, D.C. 20013. Deadline for mailing votes is Monday.

To help local commissions and organizations planning Bicentennial activities, the Illinois Bicentennial Commission has published "A Planning Guide for Including the Handicapped at Bicentennial Events."

"Most of the suggestions contained in the guide are easily implemented and inexpensive. Many of the ideas are also helpful to non-handicaped members of the community — especially the very young and the old," said Michael Linderman, executive director of the Illinois Bicentennial Commission.

Sample information includes how to have materials transcribed into Braille and how to make buildings accessible to the handicapped. For a copy, call the commission at 793-4581.

See yesterday's telephones at Bell System Phone Fair

You can see telephones from the past and find out how you would have sounded on phones from yesterday at the Bell System Phone Fair today, Sunday and Monday at Hawthorn Shopping Mall in Vernon Hills.

An Illinois Bell operator will show visitors how calls are handled and how long distance calls are transmitted. Visitors will also get a look inside an installer's van to see equipment used to connect telephones. A Picturephone will also be on display and you can challenge a computer to tic-tac-toe.

The fair will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. today, noon to 5 p.m. Sunday and 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday.

Free films scheduled at Shedd Aquarium

For a change of pace from winter, the John G. Shedd Aquarium in Chicago is showing three films in February that will take viewers to warmer climates.

The films are "Shark, Danger in the Sea," "Survival in the Sea," and "Portugal: Men of the Sea."

The aquarium, at 1200 S. Lake Shore Drive, is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday. Admission is $1 for adults, 35 cents for children ages 6-17, students at least 18 years old and senior citizens with Medicare Card. Sost is $2.50 for families. Admission is free Fridays.

Have brunch at the zoo

Brookfield Zoo is sponsoring brunch at the zoo Sundays 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The brunch features pancakes, French toast, eggs, bacon, sausage, toast and hash brown potatoes and coincides with the zoo's winter walk self-guided tour through the park. Cost ranges from $1-$1.50.

A visit with the merry M*A*S*H crew

by Dick Kleiner

If you're a reporter covering movie and TV people and productions, you eventually get used to hearing the same old lines time after weary time.

Some of the most common are (1) "I know this is a small part, but it's a challenge") (2) "I might do a series but only if it's a part I can live with"; (3) "Sure, it's a cop series, but with a difference") (4) "This is, the happies company I've ever worked with."

That last one deserves a bit of amplification. I have never yet been on a set and heard one actor say, about another, "I detest his miserable guts." Instead, with a reporter present, actors invariably say nice things about other actors. You may know, from inside tips, that the two can't stand each other, but they pay lip-service to Good Buddyship. Sweetness and light reigns supreme.

I had heard reports that the M*A*S*H company really did get along, and I decided that was worth checking out. So I spent a few hours, just sitting there, watching and listening and observing. Not once did anybody say, "This is the happiest company I've ever worked with," but they did seem to get along swimmingly.

It was a Monday when I reported to my observation post. Monday, on the M*A*S*H set, is the time when they all sit around, waiting for Alan Alda to show up. Alda still lives back east, in New Jersey. After work on Friday evening, he flies home and returns on Monday. Sometimes, if he gets a day or two off in mid-week, he'll zip home for that day or two.

"Every Friday," Gary Burghoff said, "he takes the 4:30 plane and he always sits in the same seat — they save the first seat in coach for him. They know him, and they try to keep the seats next to him unsold, so he can take out the arm rests and can stretch out and sleep."

While they were waiting for him to show up, the whole bunch sat around. Gene Reynolds, the producer, was there, too. He was talking proudly of the fact that "The Confetti Man," the book written by his wife, Bonnie Jones Reynolds, was creeping up on the best-seller list.

"That has a better shot at a movie sale than her first book," I said, "because it is more photogenic."

"You're right," Reynolds said. "And there is interest from some studios already. We've got our fingers crossed."

They all sat around and talked about the book for a while. Bonnie often does bits on the show, playing a nurse, so it was as though one of their own had written the book.

Mike Farrell, who moved in this season to replace Wayne Rogers, was nibbling on his lunch. It was still an hour or so before the break, but he was hungry. He brings his own lunch to the studio, because he is a health food type. He sipped on a cup of health food vegetable soup.

Later, during the lunch break, he would finish the soup, eat a health food salad and drink a bottle of his health food drink (celery, parsley, spinach, pineapple and mint juices).

Jamie Farr as Klinger

"That must be what makes your feet grow so big," one of the others kidded him about his oversized feet.

The conversation was wide-ranging, as they played their Monday game of Waiting For Alan. Burghoff had been toying with a comic strip idea. He wanted to know how much comic strip artists made and all about the ins and outs of the syndicated business.

It was Loretta Swit's birthday, but there wasn't going to be a party. Instead, they would have a party a few days hence, on her last day. She was leaving for New York to go into a hit play, "Same Time Next Year," with Ted Bessell.

They said they had shot many scenes with Loretta ahead, to insert into subsequent shows, so she'll always be there. Everybody was chipping in eight dollars for cake and champagne for her.

"I think we should make that nine dollars," Burghoff said. "That way, there'll be enough to go around."

Jamie Farr came by, in his dress, beads, earrings. He has made the part of Klinger, the soldier bucking for a discharge, one of the funniest characters on TV.

"The part has made me a star," he said, after the others paid him their usual wolf-whistle compliments. "Now the public knows the name, Jamie Farr."

He told a funny story, about real names vs. show names. He says he was on tour and somebody asked him what the real name was of the guy who plays Alan Alda on M*A*S*H. That started them all telling stories about the fickle public and its knowledge — or lack of knowledge — of the real names of performers.

"I'm always busy these days," Farr said. "This show has been great for me. Last year, I went right from this to other things — Barnaby Jones, The Night Stalker — and I expect this year will be just as good."

Harry Morgan, who has succeeded McLean Stevenson as the M*A*S*H commanding officer, says that stepping in for Stevenson wasn't too hard.

"Sure, Mac was one of the most popular men in the history of TV," he said, "but I'm not playing the same character. It might have been a problem, intellectually, but it wasn't anything I couldn't handle."

It was getting on toward noon. And then Alda arrived, striding in through the soundstage door with his shirttails flapping.

"Hi, gang," he said.

They all jumped up and ran over to him, as though he were just back from the Moon. It looked like a happy company, darn it.

Telly Savalas to sing in special Wednesday

Telly Savalas, star of "Kojak," makes his musical-comedy debut on "Telly . . . Who Loves Ya, Baby?" Wednesday at 9 p.m. on CBS.

Also featured will be Diahann Carroll, Barbara Eden and Cloris Leachman, star of "Phyllis." A portion of the special will feature "Telly's Pop," Savalas' race horse that recently became the first horse in history to win California's triple crown for two-year-olds.

Savalas now has made three albums and a gold record. Also he headlined a command performance for Queen Elizabeth in England.

"My singing isn't going to scare Frank Sinatra," Savalas said. "But it does show what one can do if you're not afraid to try something new."

Carl Reiner makes wishes come true as Mr. Angel in new comedy series

A special preview of ABC's new comedy series, "Good Heavens" with Carl Reiner as Mr. Angel who makes wishes come true, will be aired Feb. 29 at 9:25 p.m. The series will debut at a later date.

Dressed as a businessman, Mr. Angel appears before ordinary mortals from every walk of life who have consistently performed simple acts of kindness. He offers as a gift a chance to turn a favorite dream into reality, provided it is something money can't buy.

The preview episode stars Rob Reiner, Carl's son and Penny Marshall, Rob Reiner's wife.

Popularity poll: the people's choice

by Vernon Scott

Popularity is the sole criterion for "The People's Choice Awards," a video special which ignores box office receipts or Nielsen ratings and is unaffiliated with any academy.

Curiously, however, public opinion mirrors both the box office and ratings, and is not too far off the Oscar and Emmy marks.

The second annual edition of this new entry in awards programs, to be telecast 8 p.m. Thursday on CBS is the result of a national poll which surpasses the Nielsen sampling in number of persons queried, 10,000 in all.

Campaigning by individuals and studios is impossible. The winners are selected by fans and non-fans who have nothing to gain by their choices.

Last year "All In The Family" was voted the favorite television comedy. "The Sting" came through as the most popular movie. "The Waltons" and "Kojak" tied for favorite television drama.

In the personality department Mary Tyler Moore won for best female performer along with Carol Burnett for best variety star. Alan Alda and Telly Savalas tied for best male performer.

Among movie stars John Wayne and Barbra Streisand came away winners. Bob Hope was voted best male performer.

This year almost all of the same winners have been nominated again with a generous sprinkling of new names.

The three movies in the running are "Jaws," "Towering Inferno" and "Let's Do It Again."

Two new categories have been added, favorite new television program and favorite 1975 song.

Nominated for best new show are "Phyllis," "Starsky & Hutch" and "Welcome Back, Kotter."

The three songs in the running are "Love Will Keep Us Together," "Feelings" and "Rhinestone Cowboy."

One of the curiosities of this year's awards is the nomination of Lawrence Welk in the favorite musical performer category. Old "One-and-a-two" is up against John Denver and Elton John.

Co-hosts of this year's edition of the awards are Jack Albertson and Army Archerd, Daily Variety columnist and the man who has introduced stars at Academy Awards and other Hollywood spectaculars for the past 14 years.

Archerd, who hosted the show with Richard Crenna last year, is a spokesman for "The People's Choice Awards," and the number one chronicler in the entertainment trade press. He hosted 400 segments of "The Movie Game" series and has become a celebrity himself!

"What makes our show different from other awards is public participation. The poll is taken by the Chilton Research Services. They interview 5,000 people to get the three nominees in each category," he said.

"They don't tell the people being interviewed what the poll is about. So it's an honest survey. There's no influence or press agentry involved.

"Once the nominees are tallied, they ask another 5,000 individuals who their choices are of the three finalists in each of the 13 categories. Again, they don't reveal the purpose of the survey."

Chilton samples the public by computerized random selection of various age groups, income and ethnic background.

JACK ALBERTSON

All sections of the country are represented.

"The title for this show says it all," Archerd concluded, "the winners are really the people's choice."

A friend remembers James Dean

by Joan Hanauer

It was 20 years ago last September that James Dean died at the age of 24, and turned from a popular actor into a forever youthful cult idol. James Dean, the epitome of teen-age rebellion in the 1950s, would have been 45 this year.

After Dean's death, Bill Bast, Dean's friend and one-time roommate, wrote a book about his pal which NBC will air as a two-hour television movie Thursday at 8 p.m.

"It's hard in two brief hours to show James Dean evolving from a semi-literate hick from an Indiana farm into a semi-intellectual successful motion picture star with a bent for the extraordinary," Bast said of the television project during an interview.

Dean's career actually was brief. It consisted primarily of three films — "East of Eden," "Rebel Without A Cause" and "Giant." In each he appeared troubled, inarticulate, misunderstood — the typical teenager's view of himself.

Bast made it clear that neither the book nor the teleplay was an attempt at biography. That's why the title is "James Dean, Portrait of a Friend" — because Bast tries to paint a picture of the Dean he knew during their five-year friendship which began when Dean was 19 and both boys were students at UCLA. It ended with Dean's death in a head-on auto collision in California.

"He was a very strange, moody guy," Bast said, "but there was a very compelling quality about him in private as well as on the screen.

"To me, the clearest reason for his screen success was that the sense of intimacy, compelling warmth and directness that he had on the screen came straight from his private life.

"That is, if that was the way he wanted to be. He also could shut you off like a refrigerator."

Bast remembers with a smile his mother's first meeting with Dean. She had come to visit her son in California when he and Dean were rooming together in Santa Monica.

She spent the day with Dean while Bast was out. On his return his mother demanded, "Who is this creep you live with? He hasn't spoken to me all day. He just sculpted some ugly thing. What is it, anyway? It looks obscene."

"Count on it, it is obscene," Bast told his mother. But that was before Dean turned on the charm. "Today that woman thinks he was the greatest thing that ever lived. A little odd, she'll concede, but a wonderful boy."

If Dean was odd in life, what happened after his death was eerie.

"What happened after he died was bizarre," Bast said. "It stated bizarre within 24 hours of his death and it stayed bizarre for three or four years.

"From the moment he died people who needed to find something special in Dean started coming out of the woodwork, molding and shaping for themselves a James Dean they needed."

It began with incidents such as the young man who swore that he was going to get into the mortuary where Dean's body lay, pry open the coffin and give the corpse a goodbye kiss.

From the emotions of teenagers who identified with Dean, including many troubled youngsters, came the Dean boom. There was money to be made from the Dean fans who wrote 50,000 letters to his movie studio in the year after his death.

Magazines carried cover stories on Dean and the minutia of his last hours. A one-shot Dean magazine published what it claimed was an interview with Dean from beyond the grave, while other stories contended Dean survived the accident but was dreadfully scarred and in an institution.

Songs were written about him, records cut, sheet music sold, trinkets on display. Relics were on sale — supposed bits of his clothing, strands of his hair.

"I wrote a book about him a year after his death, to put him to rest," Bast said. "Instead I unwittingly made myself a target of these people. These kids would dump their lives in my lap and say, 'You knew him. He would have understood me. You help me.' I couldn't take it. I fled to Europe."

Making the television play has been an unsettling experience for Bast. He expressed delight with the acting of Stephen McHattie as Dean and Michael Brandon as Bill Bast, saying:

"We really didn't want an imitation of Dean. If we wanted a James Dean imitation we could have tried to get Rich Little and he'd have done a fine one. We wanted an actor to play the essence of Dean, and McHattie captures that.

"The weirdest part in writing the teleplay was that I was writing memories and memories are very immediate. This was my youth, and when you think about your youth, it doesn't seem so far away.

"Then you try putting it on film and how long ago it seems, how funny the clothes, how naive the attitudes. In today's terms, our preoccupations then seem almost childish to me now.

"This is a period piece, and it's hard to think of your own life as a period piece."

You can't take the storekeeper out of Ike

HOLLYWOOD (&UPI) — Joe Conley, who plays the yokel storekeeper Ike Godsey in "The Waltons," keeps his own store in real life.

But it is vastly more profitable and complicated than the rural emporium he operates on the CBS-TV series.

Conley owns a string of three real estate offices in the San Fernando Valley and employs some 31 salespersons.

Conley, like many an actor, had hard going as a newcomer to greasepaint. Rather than fill out his income with unemployment insurance, he began selling real estate 14 years ago.

A personable man with a great deal of wit and charm, he became an outstanding salesman. He went into business for himself five years ago. Business has boomed.

He and his wife, Louise, have been married seven years. They are the parents of two daughters, Erin, 4, and Jana Lynne, 6 months.

Actor Conley took advantage of his real estate know-how to buy the family a large two-story ranch style, four-bedroom home, complete with swimming pool, in the valley. The Conleys decorated the house on their own.

Joe is a handyman who added a bar to the house and cultivates his own vegetable garden where the provender includes tomatoes, corn, beans and radishes.

Conley is a third generation actor. A native of Buffalo, N.Y., his maternal grandfather was known up and down the East Coast from the 1880s to 1920 as "Snake Oil Johnny MacMahon." His mother sang and played the piano in Snake Oil Johnny's show and later had her own act in vaudeville.

In his double life as businessman and actor, Conley has a peculiar weekly schedule. He rarely works more than two days a week in "The Waltons." The producers are aware of his real estate business and try to accommodate his availability.

Most days begin with a 7:30 visit to a nearby health club where Joe plays handball for an hour or two with a group of friends. Then he heads for his office, skipping breakfast.

He is home between 6 and 7 o'clock, where he is treated to Louise's gourmet meals. She excels at Chinese, Spanish and French dishes mastered at special cooking classes.

On weekends Conley does a great deal of barbecuing. There are 200 pounds of steaks in the family freezer.

Saturday is devoted to gardening and cleaning the swimming pool. The Conleys are Roman Catholics and attend mass every Sunday, spending the rest of the day with their daughters.

Ike Godsey wears perhaps the cheapest, least stylish clothes in television. Conley, however, can be found in suit and necktie every day of the week. He no longer sells houses himself but made an exception by finding a home for John Walmsley, who plays Jason in the series.

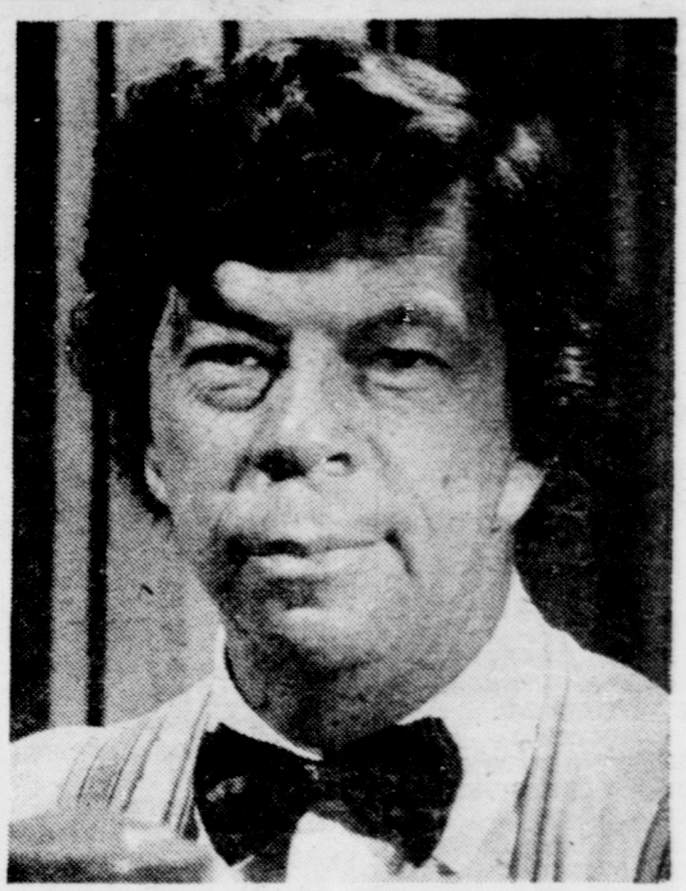
He is on friendly terms with other members of the cast but seldom socializes with them away from the set.

Godsey rides a 1927 motorcycle on the show, and after several mishaps Conely has come to loathe the machine. He wouldn't think of riding a motorcycle on his own time.

The Conleys have no domestic help, although they could well afford it. Louise prefers to take care of the house and chores herself — even to cooking large dinners for guests.

If Joe Conley had to choose between acting and the real estate business he would be hard pressed to make a decision.

"I like the independence of doing both," he says. "But I'll tell you this, the real estate business is more than twice as remunerative as acting."



JOE CONLEY

I am a real big fan of Sammy Davis Jr. (who isn't?) and I was wondering, how long has he been in show business?

S.P.

Sammy made his professional debut at age two in the Gibson Theatre in an act with his father and uncle, Will Mastin. He began as a determined youngster out of Harlem and worked with those two relatives in low paying clubs and vaudeville.

Sammy spent two years in the Army (1943-45) and some time after he returned, the trio finally achieved success. After a cross-country nightclub tour, the group culminated with an opening night performance at the now defunct Slapsey Maxie's in Los Angeles.

When his dad and uncle retired, Sammy hit the big time. He gave three Royal Command performances in London and headlined at the famous Ciro's in Hollywood.

Sammy's achievements have been incredible. He has recorded over 30 LP's and his many singles have sold well over 15,000,000.

Small town crowds love television's wackiest show

Small town boosterism is the theme of "Almost Anything Goes," the wacky television show which pits amateur hometown athletes against one another for civic pride.

A quasi-athletic contest, "Almost Anything Goes" features physical stunts ranging from catching catapulted cantaloupes in beach baskets to pillow fights over a tank of water.

Like many top video shows, it is an import from England, brought to this country by Beryl Vertue who introduced "Steptoe and Son" — which became "Sanford and Son" — and "Death Us Do Part" — which became "All In The Family" — to the United States.

Beryl is an Englishwoman in her 40s with a broad sense of humor and a keen savvy of American television tastes.

"Almost Anything Goes" has been a hit in England and many European countries for nine years.

It works like this: three towns, from 5-15,000 population, are involved every week. Each town fields a team of six players, three men and three women between the ages of 18 and 40, with substitutes in case of injury.

They wear uniforms, usually the high school's colors, and compete fiercely for dear old Pennsyltucky or whatever. It's all in good humor and hilarious to viewers.

"The towns, ideally, should be about 100 miles apart, in the same state and longtime rivals," Mrs. Vertue said. "Hopefully with just one high school. No professional athletes are allowed.

"The teams are representative of the community; students, housewives, secretaries, teachers, government workers, insurance salesmen, businessmen — just plain people. It all amounts to community spirit. The town and participants take part only for the honor and a cup for the winner."

Sectional winners in the east, south and west meet at the end of the season for the championship.

Last year the national winner was Boulder City, Nev.

A typical hour-long ABC-TV contest involves such towns as Brewton, Andalusia and Opp, Ala. Another pits Long Beach, Columbia and Picayune, Miss., against one another.

High school bands, cheerleaders and organized cheering accompanies the wild contests at the home team's athletic field.

A coach, selected by the town, chooses his team at tryouts and trains his athletes for the big event. The home town provides an ambulance and fire brigade in addition to the field and other necessities.

"It's wonderful the way townspeople turn out," said Mrs. Vertue. "It's like the Superbowl, front page news for the towns involved. Ticket sales go for local charities. Each town holds auditions for team members and we have different games on each show, from peanut relay races to water slides. They spend a fortune for uniforms.

"We stick to small towns because there is no feeling of community effort in big cities like New York or Chicago.

"The local newspapers and radio and television stations go all out to promote the competition which is organized through the chambers of commerce and town administrators.

"In some cases it is the only event of the year that really brings a town together in a community effort. It's hard to describe the enthusiasm and good spirit among the towns involved.

"Surveys show that the enthusiasm is catching. Casual viewers cannot switch away from the show. They become fascinated by the action and find themselves rooting for a little town, even people who live in a big city."

Bob Banner Associates and the Robert Stigwood organization, which produces the show, travels across the country setting up the backdrops, games and know-how.

The production company is swamped with letters from hamlets around the country wanting to put their towns on the map by participating in the show.

"Eventually we plan to hold a world championship," Mrs. Vertue said. "It would have a potential 300 million viewers by satellite."

Shelby Lyman on chess

One of my most memorable vacations, some years ago, was in and around the city of Merida in the Yucatan. I visited the local chess club where, as luck would have it, I played and defeated the Yucatan champion.

My exploit spurred the locals to arrange a public simultaneous exhibition in which, numbered amongst my 30 opponents, was a 90-year-old man, held in great respect by everyone.

I naturally was loath to beat this honored maestro of chess. Instead I contrived to make innocuous moves which would keep the game in balance. But unfortunately, my revered opponent soon began to fall soundly asleep between moves. And it became necessary gently to awaken him each time I came around.

Finally, with controlled desperation, I very seriously proposed a draw. My opponent, fully awake for a moment, accepted with these words: "Thanks be to God! Your offer of a draw preserves what little eyesight I have left."

Beginner's Corner — Hint and explanation: The black king and queen are dangerously placed on the same single diagonal. An invitation to "skewer!" Do you hear that Mr. Bishop? But this time the advanced white knight will play an exceptionally elegant role.

A strange player, Tigran Petrosian. Though gifted with rare tactical ability, he usually sits quiet as a cat watching a mouse hole. Shifting pieces, doing nothing it seems, he waits patiently.

During his 1971 Candidates Match with Viktor Korchnoi, his play was so dull that he was booed angrily by the Soviet audience. But here he is a winner in the 1975 Soviet Championship, in which he played outstandingly, see DON'T SOLVE IT.

If you'd like a good dose of the characteristic Petrosian style, look at our second diagram and play through the 12 moves of the game score given below. They are moves 15-26 of a 72 move game which ended, naturally, in a draw.

Go to it! If you have the patience to watch paint dry, you'll find Petrosian exciting.

BEGINNER'S CORNER

White has a one, two, etc.!

Solution below

DON'T SOLVE-IT

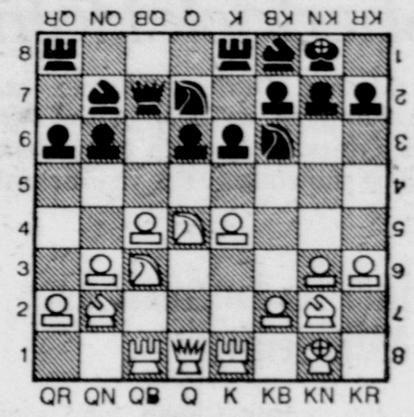
Position after 14....B-KB1

BALASHOV



PETROSIAN

Ho-Hum, etc.

(See text & game score)

| Petrosian | Balashov |
|---|---|
| 15. K-R2 | QR-Q1 |
| 16. R-B2 | Q-N1 |
| 17. R(2)-K2 | N-B4 |
| 18. K-N1 | Q-R1 |
| 19. B-R1 | Q-N1 |
| 20. R-K3 | Q-B2 |
| 21. Q-N1 | KN-Q2 |
| 22. B-N2 | N-K4 |
| 23. Q-B2 | N(K)-Q2 |
| 24. Q-K2 | R-B1 |
| 25. K-R1 | R(B)-Q1 |
| 26. N-B2 | R-B1 |
| 27. Etc. | |

Solution to BEGINNER'S CORNER: White's 1. B-QN5!! works. Though the bishop is not directly protected. If 1 . . . QxB, the knight fork (2. NxPch!) will wrap up the black queen and the game.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

North took quite a chance when he reopened with a takeout double after his opponents had stopped at two hearts. For all he knew, they might have underbid and the double might get them to game. Or his partner might have a bad hand and no place to go. However, you don't get to the finals of the team trials by sitting around and waiting. You have to take chances.

This time the bid really worked. East would have made his two hearts and might even have made three, but South bid three and four diamonds. East doubled. You can't really blame him. He had three aces and West had bid twice.

West opened the king of hearts and shifted to a low spade. East took his ace and led the suit back to West's king. That gave the defense the first three tricks, but careful play allowed South to take the next 10 and make his doubled contract.

'There's a presence'

Is Lincoln's house really haunted?

by Tom Laue

Abraham Lincoln left his Springfield home 115 years ago and never returned. But, according to a National Park Service employe, his presence there can still be felt.

"The house is not haunted. There's nothing evil about this. But things have happened which make me feel Mr. Lincoln's presence," said Shirlee Laughlin, who has ushered visitors through the two-story frame house since 1972.

The most startling episode occurred in 1973, Mrs. Laughlin said. "It was at night, and the night watchman called me. He said strange things were happening, and he wanted someone there to confirm them, to prove he wasn't losing his mind.

"I thought it was his imagination," she said, "but when I got there, there was movement in the house. You could hear footsteps and doors closing."

Mrs. Laughlin said she sought a natural explanation "but the weather bureau said there was no wind, earthquakes or anything else that could cause it."

A sophisticated alarm system, installed when the National Park Service took charge of the Lincoln home, has gone off mysteriously several times.

"In each instance, the alarm company swore the equipment was perfect," Mrs. Laughlin said. "The only way it could have happened is if there were movement in the house."

Once Mrs. Laughlin found a key with a ribbon attached. She took it to a curator who said it was in use around 1857. It was tried on a locked drawer for which the key was lost. The new-found key worked.

Other times, Mrs. Laughlin said, she has seen Lincoln's rocking chair rock — with no one in it. She once tried to move a chair out of Mrs. Lincoln's bedroom because its authenticity was in question. She felt tapping at her shoulder but no one was there. Later the chair was determined to be one Mrs. Lincoln owned.

"There have been other things, too, like pieces of furniture moving around, and once a feather was carried clear across the room and back again," Mrs. Laughlin said.

"A lot of people laugh and say I'm cracking up, that all these things can be accounted for naturally, and at first I wasn't real sure myself. Then I visited one of the guides who was here when the state ran the home, and she told me she felt some of the same things," Mrs. Laughlin said.

None of these occurences, which Mrs. Laughlin said usually come in February, May and October, frighten her.

"I have the feeling the Lincolns are pleased the home is being put into the shape it was in when they lived here," she said. "Our philosophy is to make it a living home, the kind Mrs. Lincoln would have welcomed guests in, not a museum."

Perhaps the best explanation, Mrs. Laughlin said, was the one offered by the night watchman.

"He said his grandmother told him when someone meets a violent death, he goes back to the home he loved best. This was the only home Mr. Lincoln ever owned, the place where he was a father, husband and lawyer. It was the most normal and probably happiest time of his life."
